

DEEPS
and SHALLOWS

The Tempestuous Twenties

Mom was a right pretty girl — a characteristic she has never outgrown to this day. And the very first time dad set eyes on her he was floored—figuratively and almost literally.

You see, mom came dashing out of a phone booth in a great hurry, and there was dad, right in her way, waiting to put in a call. There must have been something electric in the shock of the impact. To be almost bowled over by a pretty girl with dark curls, rosy cheeks and sparkling hazel eyes was something to write home about. And after he had recovered his equilibrium, dad decided he liked it — right smart.

But even so, proprieties called for an introduction. And try as he would, this seemed next to impossible. He dogged mom's footsteps. He was always turning up right in her path, with a cheerful grin. However, mom hadn't been brought up to talk to strangers. But although she elevated her pretty nose and her eyebrows crept up toward her generous pompadour, she couldn't help blushing, and she acquired a secret little smile — a habit of watching out of the corner of her eye for that audacious young man.

With every rebuff dad grew more determined. Finally he learned that mom was staying with her Aunt Sally, at the edge of town. And that was when dad really got on the beam. Aunt Sally had a phone. Phones are known to become out of order. Dad was in the business, and knew all about telephones. Suddenly Aunt Sally's phone became out of order, and dad went to locate the trouble.

Mom was dusting her room that day, when she heard a gentle: "Yoo-hoo!" from outside. And there was that man again. Perched on a telephone post just outside her window!

Dad turned on all his charm. "How about a movie 'tonight?'" he begged.

"Fresh!" Mom slammed down the window and went to tell Aunt Sally about the nerve of some people! Then she giggled. "He is awfully cute," she admitted.

Aunt Sally must have thought so too, for when dad asked respectfully if he might call and meet her niece, she replied that she didn't know why not.

It was a high voltage courtship. Dad went down to skin and bones, for in order to catch the car to make his nightly call on mom, he had to hurry through his dinner—sometimes to skip it altogether.

But although Aunt Sally approved of dad, she didn't approve of youthful marriages. So one evening mom and dad just walked to the preacher's by themselves and told Aunt Sally about it afterward.

So now, when they hold up their hands in horror at the antics of their "bewildering off-spring," I don't take them too seriously. History, we are told, has a way of repeating itself.

VOICE FROM VIRGINIA.

Shangri-La

Through the long, hard pull of wartime—
Sacrifices ever fresh—
Comely gams have lost their glamour,
Blurred by rayon, lisle and mesh.

Now the worst is over — maybe,
The horizon holds a thrill;
And those wolves who feast on contour,
Soon may drink their sated fill.

Cut the skirts a little shorter —
Fashion them with ripply flare;
Shangri-La has been predicted —
Nylons . . . just two bits a pair!
HIGHLAND LASSIE.

A cliché is a borrowed wisecrack — worn threadbare with use.

Mrs. Edward P. Norcross Becomes Bride of Artist

At a quiet home wedding on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 13, Mrs. Howard P. Norcross, 900 Roslyn lane, became the wife of Mr. Clare McGee of Fort Sheridan.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Aaron D. Felsing of Glencoe, who acted for her father, and was attended by Miss Mildred Appel, as maid of honor. Dr. Louis W. Sherwin officiated, and at the reception which followed the ceremony, Mrs. Felsing and Miss Regina Beckmire poured. Fort Sheridan was well represented among the guests.

Although Mr. McGee has for the past ten years acted as superintendent of grounds at Ft. Sheridan, he is an artist of recognized talent, and many of his canvases are displayed on the walls of public buildings in Chicago, his former home. At the present time he is again devoting his time to his oils, and has already completed twelve large paintings which will form the nucleus of an exhibition to be held January.

The couple will reside at 900 Roslyn lane.

Margary Ann Lederer
Married in Chicago

On Saturday evening, Oct. 20, at the Standard club in Chicago, Margary Ann Lederer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Lederer, of the Moraine hotel, exchanged vows before Dr. James Wax of Glencoe, with Lt. Herbert F. Philipsborn Jr., of Glencoe.

The bride, dressed in trailing white satin with rose point veil, and carrying orchids and stephanotis, was given in marriage by her father, and attended by Mrs. Edward Frank of Chicago, as matron of honor. Thomas D. Philipsborn, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The Misses Carol Lederer and Maxine Philipsborn, also in white, were bridesmaids, and the ushers were Sgt. Richard B. Lederer, Thomas B. Lederer, Lee Rosenblatt of Baltimore and James Rothschild of Winnetka. A reception at the club followed the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Highland Park high, also attended Northwestern, where Lt. Philipsborn, a graduate of Carleton college, was a medical student.

Lt. Cmdr. Richard Parkin Home Soon from Okinawa

Mrs. Harry A. Parkin, 168 Central, Highland Park, has just received word that her son, Lt. Com. Richard Rex Parkin, USNR, expects to arrive home in November from Okinawa, where he has been stationed in the military government service since the occupation of the island. Lt. Com. Parkin, formerly a lawyer in Chicago, enlisted in the navy in April, 1942, and was attached to the minesweeper division. The USS Nuthatch, on which he was executive officer, swept the Normandy coast for the D-Day invasion. For the subsequent action they saw at Cherbourg, the unit received the Bronze medal. Following this Lt. Com. Parkin was transferred to the service of military government and attached to the Tenth army under Gen. Buckner, landing on Okinawa on Easter Sunday, 1945, with the invasion troops. Lt. Com. Parkin's wife, the former Elizabeth Ellis of Evanston, and their three-year-old daughter are living on Hinman avenue. Lt. Com. Parkin has a sister, Mrs. William L. Winters, in Highland Park, and a brother, Lt. Henry A. Parkin, USNR, still stationed in Washington, D. C., with the naval ordnance laboratory.

"Sadie Hawkins" Night
At Swing Club Oct. 20

Swing club opened at the Highland Park Woman's club on October 20, with an enthusiastic membership participating in the informal dance program.

The next session is a turnabout, on Nov. 3. It will be "Sadie Hawkins Night," and costumes suggestive of the Lil Abner comic strip characters are in order. In fact, four prizes will be awarded to the four best representations.

The committee finds there is no "man-power shortage" at Swing club, and will accept several more girl members.

Boys who have season tickets are urged to attend the Sadie Hawkins night dance, whether or not they come with a "date."

Swing club will meet again on Nov. 24 for an informal dance and on Dec. 15 for the Christmas formal. Members should check these and the following dates on their calendars: Informal dances on Jan. 19, Feb. 2, March 9 and 30, April 13; and the Grand Finale formal on April 27.

Dr. Rossiter to Serve
Again on Home Front

After being abroad with the armed forces from August, 1942, until last September, Dr. Donald E. Rossiter is scheduled to serve again on the home front. Mayor Garnett has appointed him again president of the City Board of Health, a position which he held prior to his army service, and which has been made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Morley McNeal. Dr. Rossiter, who with his wife and family of three, lives at 1871 Lyman court, will take over his duties November 1.

As a special troops surgeon, Capt. Rossiter left for overseas in March, 1943. Aside from other services, he served in the campaigns of Sicily, Italy, Normandy, Holland, Battle of the Bulge, Rhineland and central Germany.

So many and so varied have been the experiences of the former captain, as seen from the medical, technical and travel angles, that to quote one or two episodes would present a one-sided view of the picture of his army life.

Mrs. Riddle in New York for Navy Day

The Joseph Riddles, 330 Vine, received a call from Norfolk, last week, where their son Earl (Bud) S 1/c, USN, had just arrived, aboard the USS Missouri. He revealed that during the signing of the Jap surrender terms, he stood near enough to hear the scratching of the pens.

The Missouri will lead the Victory fleet into New York Bay; on Navy Day, Oct. 27, and Mrs. Riddle will be there as her son's guest aboard the famous warship.

Mrs. Riddle plans, also, to visit the USO in Grand Central station, where she hopes to contact several local boys stationed in New York at this time. During her stay she will also visit the wife of her son, Bill, who is the former Pauline Zucker of Philadelphia.

A letter received from Bill, written at the time the recent tornado was dying down, states that he is now stationed at New Zealand, aboard a supply ship which travels from New Zealand to Saipan, Guam and Tinian. Mail, he says, will be delivered by boat, after this, instead of by plane, which will slow up correspondence considerably.

Mrs. Joseph Schwall, of Clifton avenue had planned to accompany Mrs. Riddle, to meet her son, Pfc. Robert, of the Marines, but changed her plans upon finding that Robert would be in New York only for a day. He will leave for Portland, and will cruise the east coast for a time. He is expected home in about a month.

Mrs. Alonzo Tenney, chairman, and Mrs. Oliver E. Weed, co-chairman, urge that members bring all articles of rummage to the club house not later than Wednesday morning, Oct. 31. Heavy items will be picked up at your home if you will call Mrs. Weed at Highland Park 2117.

Infant Welfare Toy
Day a Success

Two rooms piled with toys for the Thrift shop's Christmas stock were left by Infant Welfare members and their guests Monday at their "Tea for Toys" in the home of Mrs. Philip A. Watson.

The Infant Welfare society's groups in Highland Park are one of the three organizations regularly benefiting from the Thrift shop, the others being Northwestern Settlement and the Highland Park hospital auxiliary.

The Infant Welfare auxiliary's share goes to help underprivileged children and mothers at about 35 Infant Welfare stations in Chicago.

A music box played and a merry-go-round went 'round on the tea table, at which these people presided during the afternoon: Mrs. E. M. Hadley, president of the Infant Welfare senior group; Mrs. Joseph Meyers, president of the Wing; Mrs. Roswell Swazey, president of the Thrift shop board; Mrs. Ralph Archer, president of the junior group; Mrs. Bernard E. Newman, Mrs. F. J. Lunding, and Mrs. Elwood B. Low, all former Infant Welfare presidents.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Royal Place, general chairman of the "Tea for Toys," and the hostess, Mrs. Watson. Members of the board of the junior group assisted as hostesses.

Also visiting her parents is the former Ruth Peddle, with her husband, James A. Jacobs and baby son. Mr. Jacobs, formerly a staff sergeant of AAF, received his discharge at Portland, Ore., and the party flew from there to visit his parents in Rio, Wis., the first part of last week.

Japs Torture Former Resident as a "Joke"

Lt. Wm. McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lysle McDaniel, formerly of 265 Prospect, but now residing in Chicago, was released from Jap prison Sept. 9, and is now in the States.

Picked up by Jap patrol, after being forced down near Korea, Lt. McDaniel, a flier, was shackled and made to kneel before a firing squad which fired three volleys above his head and then imprisoned him. He learned that another "joke" performed on prisoners was done with a beheading sword, which was stayed just as the blade touched the neck.

Lt. McDaniel attended Highland Park high and was a student of the University of Iowa prior to entering the army in February, 1943.
