Sagitta Aurea Mortis

(The Golden Arrow of Death)
Late, one night, Diana stalks the sky...
An odd, tense figure falls beneath her eye—
A lonely gypsy, playing low a tune
On his ancient, dismal violin... and soon
He lifts his eyes to see her standing there
In shining silver; saffron is her hair.
She picks a golden arrow—draws her bow
To free this mortal spellbound there below.
An impact swift... the target, his last breath...
Impaled upon her golden spear of death.

—VIVIAN MERTZ.

And This Is No Bull

A young lady in a Chicago office so impressed a customer by her efficiency that he asked her name.
"My name," she told him, "is Miss Guernsey."
He looked at her skeptically.
"Very funny," he replied, and handed her his own card.
His name was "Holstein."

—HIGHLAND LASSIE.

Methinks that she speaks better of herself than she deserves.

List Superfluous

Professor Martin Williams was out of his front door and half way down the steps before he remembered the letters he wanted to mail. Came the voice of his ever-loving wife:

"Martin, dear, have you the library book? It's overdue, you know."

"Thanks, Myra, I'll get it."
"And Martin, don't forget the bottle of ink—large size. And be sure to get some airmail stamps. Just a minute—I'll make a list."

"Nonsense, Myra, what do I want with a list? I never forget anything, do I?"

"Yes, dear, sometimes you do. And Martin, when you go by Sheldon's take a look at their aquarium—and tell Nellie I'll bring a lemon cream pie when I come Tuesday. She'll understand. Sure you don't want a list?"

"Really, Myra, I assure you it's quite unnecessary."

He started down the hill toward the village, congratulating himself on deciding to walk. His legs needed stretching, for he had been constantly at his desk for over a week. But he had finished that article to his satisfaction, and, much encouraged, he was secretly of the mind to write another book. True, his first one hadn't been exactly a best seller, but the editor had asked for another article, and that was satisfying.

He saw a lady coming toward him—a stranger, for he was personally acquainted with everyone living on the hill. Always the gentleman, he lifted his hat, remarking: "It's more strenuous getting up the hill than coming down."

The lady seemed glad of an excuse to stop. "Can you tell me where to find the nearest book store?"

The professor gasped, doubting his ears. "A book store, did you say?"

Bundles for America Gift Suggestions

"Bundles for America" offers a list of gifts and suggests that all those contemplating filling stockings for hospitalized veterans make their selections from this list. These articles have proven to be most desired by the veterans both from a utility standpoint and as a means of making the hours pass more quickly.

Suggestions—candy, cigarettes, soap, toothpaste, talcum powder, tooth brush, styptic pencil, razor blades, razor hone, shaving cream, cadie cloth (shoe cloth), comb, playing cards, games, stationery, wallet, puzzle book, pencil, match folder with photo, card with donor's name.

Lois Bolle Pledged to Honorary Sorority

Lois Bolle, 626 S. St. Johns avenue, Highland Park, Gamma Phi Beta, has been pledged to Shi-Ai, University of Illinois honorary sorority for the promotion of friendship and cooperation among Greek-letter organizations for women. Limited to sophomores, the new pledges total 36 women from 18 sororities.

"Yes, I'm looking for a certain book and the clerk in the drug store told me to go right up this road till I came to number 5938, where he was sure I'd find plenty of them."

5938! There was certainly a familiar ring to the number. Although mystified, he brushed aside the problem, deciding that the lady was, no doubt, mentally unbalanced. When she got to the top of the hill the road would end, and all she could do was to turn around and come down again. When a woman gets a notion in her head, he told himself, it's always best to let her have her way. But he did give her a warning. "Madame, I'm sorry I can't give the information you ask. Perhaps the clerk gave you the wrong directions."

But the lady went on up the hill and the professor continued his way down.

Several hours later, the weather had become very hot. By the time he reached home the professor was not only wilted but exhausted. He still carried the three-pound book, overdue at the library, and also a quart jar half full of water in which swam three tiny gold fish. He didn't want those gold fish more than he wanted a pet pig, but he couldn't very well refuse a present to Myra. However, if he hadn't been a real gentleman he would have thrown the jar, fish and all, into the brush along the road.

Some lucky instinct told him to enter his home by the back way. He had no more than closed the screen door when he heard:

"Martin, dear, do come in and meet Mrs. West. She walked all the way up the hill because she wants to buy one of your books. Her husband is interested in the subject and she wants it for his birthday."

Ge golly gosh! The professor was stunned. But he made an almost instant recovery.

"Myra, please give the lady my compliments and present her with two copies. I'm too messy to be presentable just now."

Quite pleased with himself he muttered, "I can manage Myra alone very nicely... but two of them!... I think I'd better take a bath."

Myra's voice again came floating up from the floor below:

"Martin dear, don't you remember that our house number is 5938?"

Jerome Kern

To you who took the rainbow in the sky,
The glow of ardor in a lover's eye,
The shell-pink satin of a youthful cheek,
A shy smile's rosy curve—a dimple sleek,
And wove the whole into a shawl of dreams—
A garment laced with moonlight—one that seems
A shelter from the chastening clouds of care
That sadder, wiser oldsters know are there:
You are not really dead—you'll live as long
As young love seeks to voice itself in song.

—R.B.O.

Newcomers To Highland Park

Mrs. George Hough Jr., the former Gwen Laser of Highland Park, with her small son, has taken up residence at 1836 Greenwood avenue. Prior to October 1, she lived in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman H. Bellows, 1338 Marion, moved here from Cleveland, Ohio, recently. Mr. Bellows is connected with the Sheldon Machinery Co., of Chicago. Their daughter, Barbara, is now serving with the American Red Cross in Vienna. Ens. James, their son, is a member of the U. S. navy.

Swing Club to Hold Informal Dance November 24th

The next Swing club informal dance will be held in the Highland Park Woman's club on the evening of Nov. 24.

Dave Davis and his orchestra will again provide the music. Mrs. Harold A. Bridges, chairman of the Swing club committee, wishes the young people to know that the rules governing their deportment at Swing club will follow very closely those in effect at the high school dances.

CUPID'S CORNER

Announce Engagement of Nancy Margaret Armstrong To Pittsburgh Man

The engagement of Nancy Margaret Armstrong, former Highland Park, to Cpl. Curtis Elgin Laughlin Gould, USMC, son of Capt. and Mrs. Earl C. B. Gould of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Armstrong from their home in Washington, D. C.

For the past two years Miss Armstrong has served in the navy department at Washington. She has now enrolled in George Washington university.

Early Wedding Is Being Planned for Virginia Ann Pool

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Pool, 1100 S. Ridge, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Anne, to Howard Vincent Demore of New Haven, Conn., veteran of 39 months' service in the Mediterranean and European areas. Miss Pool is a graduate of the National College of Education in Evanston.

An early wedding is being planned.

Presbyterian Woman's Association Presents Marion L. Moyes

The speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Woman's association of Highland Park Presbyterian church on Monday, Nov. 19, will be Marion L. Moyes. He will speak on "America's Back Yard."

The talk will be principally concerned with the work of the Board of National Missions in the coal mining districts of southern Ohio and W. Virginia. Mr. Moyes will tell of his personal experience during his brief period of work there.

The speaker's early life was spent in a rural section of Missouri. He graduated from Park college near Kansas City, Mo., in 1943 and is now a senior at McCormick Theological seminary. For the last four years he has been student pastor at various rural churches in the midwest, under the Board of National Missions.

The Association program for the day is as follows:

10 a.m. Sewing and hospital dressings.

12 m. Chancel service conducted by Mrs. H. C. Hawes.

12:30: Luncheon served by Mrs. C. S. Stunkel's group.

2 p.m. Program—Mr. Moyes as speaker.

Mrs. Bartel's group is in charge of the bake sale.

The Tuesday evening group will meet Nov. 27 at 6:30 for a dinner and work meeting at the church.

High School Students Put Over "Incognito" With a Bang

The play, "Incognito," written by Richard Nussbaum, and presented last Saturday evening by a talented group of high school students, combined mystery with comedy and romance, and provided a good audience with entertainment for a couple of hours.

The characters, a spinster school teacher, a sea-sick girl, a society snob, an inebriate and a refugee, among other characters, thrown together on a pleasure boat off the coast of Brazil, provided a situation in which almost anything can happen—and did!

The cast included Louis Porterfield, Diane Stathas, Jean Robb, Harriet McNeal, Gladys Pick, Nancy Newman, Eleanor Josefson, Diane MacFarland, Carol Rubens, Renee Ramond, Nancy Appel, Eileen Risjord, Virginia Knox, Don Cole, Steve Pinkerton, Bob Redfern and Dick Thompson, who, backed by a capable production staff, gave an excellent account of themselves. They are all members of the drama class.

Five New Members Are Installed by Ladies of the Moose

Ladies of the Moose initiated five new members into their lodge last week Wednesday, at Witten hall, the ceremony being complimentary to the guest of honor, Frieda Clinger, grand secretary of the college of regents, Lewiston, Pa.

The new members are: Wanda Duffy, Catherine Engstrom, Mary Ferraro, Tina Gaggioli and Vivian Turchi.

Also honored guests were Mary Hooper and Mrs. M. Biddle, of the college of regents of Baltimore, Ann Jackson of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Amelle Mousit and Pearl Price of the greater Chicago chapter 129.

The ceremony was followed by a pot luck supper.

Local Woman's Club Hostess to Clubs Of Lake County

On Nov. 20, the Highland Park Woman's club will entertain the Lake County Federation of Women's clubs at their club house, Sheridan road and Elm Place.

The board meeting at 10:30 a.m. will be conducted by Mrs. Frank Just—Libertyville, president of the Federation.

At 11 a.m., Miss Caroline Barr will present a "Sara Teasdale" program at which Highland Park club members will be most welcome. Miss Barr, graduate of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, and a graduate student of the Universidad Nacional de Mexico, is a well known dramatic reader, having had wide experience in acting, lecturing and writing. She will be introduced by Mrs. Paul M. LaRose, Federation program chairman.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., and a limited number of Highland Park club members can be accommodated. Telephone reservations to Mrs. James M. Cuthbertson, H. P. 1334, before Nov. 13th.

At 2 o'clock, Mrs. Leonard Keaster, president of the Highland Park club, will welcome the Federation guests to the regular meeting of the club.

Mrs. Benedict K. Goodman, program chairman, will present Mrs. Margaret Sellack, artist-lecturer, of DesPlaines, who will speak on "The Old Northwest Territory." Perhaps not many of us realize that this is our own locale.

Mrs. Selleck, dressed as a matron of the 1880's, will be assisted by six club members in appropriate costume. Mrs. Ray Meddaugh will provide the background piano music, and Mrs. Selleck's period costumes will be worn by Mrs. Claburn Jones, Mrs. David Sanders, Mrs. Sidney Frisgh, Mrs. Clarence Bassler, and Mrs. Alonzo Tenney. Mrs. Goodman will represent the modern American service woman by wearing her own uniform of the American Women's Voluntary service.

Mrs. Selleck will further illustrate her lecture with a showing of her own vivid paintings of historic landmarks in the Northwest Territory. Mrs. Selleck has been called "Crusader for Beauty and Romance," and under her spell "forgotten splendors of that overlooked land gleam brilliantly again and a world of romance comes back to life."

Hostesses at the afternoon meeting will be Mrs. Herman Black, Mrs. William Gartside, Mrs. Lyle W. Maley and Mrs. Ray Meddaugh.

Presiding at the tea tables, following the afternoon program will be Mrs. Fred Carpenter, Mrs. George O. Strecker, Mrs. Ray Meddaugh, and Mrs. Richard Allenby.

Northwestern Settlement Plans for Christmas Stockings

When Santa Claus stops at Northwestern Settlement House on Christmas eve, his pack will contain toy-stuffed stockings and gift boxes filled by the local branch for needy children and old people in the Settlement neighborhood. Christmas plans were discussed and committees appointed at last week's meeting held in the Evanson home of Mrs. George E. Bliss with Mrs. Frank McDonald as co-hostess.

After Mrs. W. H. Bangs, president of the Highland Park branch, announced that Harriet Vittum as resident head of the Settlement House, saw a bleak Christmas for many children this first postwar yuletide, the local group was pleased to resume its custom of filling stockings. Last year, instead of the traditional donation of stockings, a cash contribution was given to the Settlement House to purchase a portable bowling alley for entertaining teen-agers in the Settlement gymnasium.

Mrs. Kenneth Anderson and Mrs. Howell Murray are chairmen in charge of gift purchasing for twenty men and women in the Settlement's "Over Seventy Club," and Mrs. Herman Zischke and Mrs. Earl Wallis will shop for toys for the children's stockings. Gift boxes and stockings will be packed at the December meeting of the local branch and delivered in ample time to swell Santa's pack.

Spending Winter In Florida

The A. S. Burdicks, 344 Oakland drive, have left for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will remain for the winter months.

The F. A. Watkins family, 29 Dale, have left for their winter home at Del Ray Beach, Fla.

"The Ryan Girl" Now At Blackstone Theatre; Havoc, Lowe, Stars

June Havoc and Edmund Lowe are co-starred in "The Ryan Girl," a new play by Edmund Goulding which will be presented at the Blackstone theatre, Chicago, Monday evening, Nov. 19, by Messrs. Shubert in association with Albert DeCourville.

In addition to the two stars the company of "The Ryan Girl" will be the same as seen in New York and Philadelphia with two minor exceptions. Among the noted players in the cast to be seen in Chicago will be Doris Dalton, Una O'Connor, Curtis Cooksey and Calvin Thomas.

When June Havoc created her sensational triumph as Sadie Thompson in the musical version of "Rain," following her successes in "Mexican Hayride" and "Pal Joey," it was inevitable that the rising young actress should be brought to the dramatic stage. It was Edmund Goulding, creator and developer of women stars in Hollywood, who selected June Havoc for the title role in "The Ryan Girl," which he directed as well as wrote.

Edmund Lowe, who has played almost every type part from the society doctor in "Dinner at Eight" to the lawbreaker in "Dillinger" on the screen, has returned to the stage after an absence of twenty years, to portray a gentleman of dubious morals and manners.

Mr. Goulding has not been represented on the stage for many years. After penning the Helen Hayes play, "Dancing Mothers," he went to Hollywood where he directed a continuous succession of outstanding pictures. Among the latest of the director's achievements are "Claudia" starring Dorothy McGuire, "The Constant Nymph" starring Joan Fontaine and Charles Boyer, "The Great Lie" starring Bette Davis and Mary Astor and "The Old Maid" starring Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins.

Art Committee of the H.P. Woman's Club To Exhibit Prize Paintings

The Highland Park Woman's club is fortunate in having for its art chairman Mrs. James P. Moore, member of the North Shore Art league. Through her efforts, the club is displaying most of the 35 paintings recently shown at the New Trier high school.

A jury composed of Aaron Bohrod, Edgar Miller and Park Phipps awarded the prizes in this exhibit.

Only one of the prize winning pictures is being shown in Highland Park—a water color sketch of Mont St. Michel by Carol Lou Burnham. Other interesting landscapes in water color are done by Alberta Friedlander, Henrietta Pallat, Esther Gerrard, Helen Hare and Jean McConnell. Noyes Huston has a good landscape in oils, and Tom Wilder's brilliant "Autumn on the North Shore" is outstanding.

At the Winnetka exhibit, the prize for figure and portraiture went to Margaret Huston, whose "Girl in the Blue Skirt" in the Highland Park collection brought forth much favorable comment.

The studios of the League are in the Winnetka Community House, and the membership includes amateur as well as professional artists, and patrons of the arts.

To Direct State March of Dimes

William E. Fay

William E. Fay of Joliet has been named Illinois State Chairman of the 1946 March of Dimes to be conducted January 1-31 by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Basil O'Connor, president of the Foundation, announced.

President of the Champion Machinery Company, Mr. Fay is a member of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and a director of the First National Bank of Joliet and of the Will County Manufacturers Association.

To help fight the recent Winnebago County outbreak of infantile paralysis, the worst epidemic in the history of Illinois, the National Foundation sent $150,000 to the County Chapter at Rockford. This is in addition to $38,122.52 advanced for epidemic aid in other parts of Illinois this year by the National Foundation, making total of $288,122.52.

In accepting the March of Dimes chairmanship, Mr. Fay said:

"In our state alone during the first nine months of this year, 853 cases of infantile paralysis were reported. Fortunately, through the generous contributions of the American people to the March of Dimes, it is possible for the fight against this disease to be continually strengthened and intensified."

HE'S WAITING TO TALK TO MOM AND DAD

This is the day he's looked forward to, all through those weary months overseas... Now, he's back at Fort Sheridan and eager to reach a telephone to tell the folks all about it.

If you know how much that first call back home means to him—and to Mom and Dad—you'll be glad to help by NOT making Long Distance calls between 7 and 10 P.M.

In recent months, telephone traffic here—right in this area—has exceeded all former records. Thousands of returning service men are coming through, for discharge or redeployment. And sometimes their calls can't get through for several hours.

We're doing everything we possibly can to help them. Won't you do what you can, too, by not making Long Distance calls during these busy hours? Thank you!
