North Shore Study Group to Present "Panel on Palestine"

For the January session of the North Shore Joint Study group the steering committee has decided to present a "Panel on Palestine," a subject which currently merits our very close attention. An informed public opinion on all measures is the bulwark of a democracy at home. The atomic age has definitely thrust us into the family of nations and by virtue of that fact we must concern ourselves with all major problems affecting any unit within that group. A likely starting point is Palestine. The set-up is as follows:
The Historical View, Mrs. James Gordon, Mrs. Herbert T. Schaffner.
A Political Outline, Mrs. Eugene Weinberg, Jessie Holland, Elmer Klein.
The Absorptive Capacity, Mrs. I. M. Greenberg.
The Moderator, Mrs. Charles Satinover.
The meeting will begin as usual promptly at 1:30, Tuesday, Jan. 8, at the Temple, Glencoe. Bibliographies may be obtained from any member of the panel.

2016 License Plates Being Mailed as Rapidly as Possible

Applicants for reassigned car license numbers were advised by Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett today that plates are being mailed as rapidly as postal authorities can handle the workload.

Mailing was resumed the day following Christmas after a ten-day halt in shipments during the holiday postal rush.

Within the next week or ten days, the Automobile department expects to complete shipment of all reassigned plates through the 200-000 series, Barrett said. At the same time, processing has started on routine applications which did not request a reassignment. These applications will be handled in the order in which they were received by the department.

Motorists whose reassigned numbers are in the higher brackets will have to wait a while longer for their 1946 plates. These will be shipped, Barrett said, as the plates are received from the factory.

Office Surplus Property Releases Truck Tires; Declared Surplus

Approximately 102,000 truck tires which have been declared surplus by the army will be sold exclusively to veterans in a nationwide sale to get under way immediately, for the Office of Surplus Property, Consumer Goods division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced today.

The tires, which are new, will be sold through the Regional Consumer Goods offices maintained by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 11 cities. These tires are the military mud and snow tread design.

Approximate quantities and sizes include 53,000 6.00x16, 6 ply; 6,400 6.50x20, 6 ply; 32,200 7.50x20, 18 ply; 10,750 10.00x22, 12 ply.

In order to be eligible to purchase, a veteran must be certified by Smaller War Plants corporation.

Under the program the minimum order which will be accepted from a veteran is a quantity of 25 tires in any or all of the four sizes. The maximum order to be accepted is a quantity of 50 tires in any one size. Therefore no veteran may receive more than 200 tires altogether.

In order to participate veterans must obtain from Smaller War Plants corporation a certificate calling for tires of the size and type outlined in this special sale. These tires are offered previously to federal, state, county and municipal agencies.

The nearest Regional Consumer offices are maintained in Chicago.

Trail-Blazers in Citizenship

Title of an article appearing in the Sept. 1945 issue of the Survey Graphic, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the National League of Women Voters. It was written by Mrs. Avis D. Carlson, a free lance reporter of social experiment and progress.)

Progressive Political Education

In the early years of the League it was assumed that if enough people knew enough facts about government, an intelligent and responsible electorate would automatically result. So facts were poured upon members from every source but nothing much was said about how to be a good citizen.

"Gradually the league came to see that it was more important to induce one single person to take his first faltering step in being a citizen, that is to say, in participating in his government, than it was to teach a hundred citizens a lot of facts about government.

This was the principle of progressive education, learn by doing, applied to political education."

It worked! That first step, even if it was only to find out that the garbage collection was inefficient, seemed almost inevitably to lead to another and another, until finally the whole anatomy of government was laid bare. She would emerge with a new understanding of her government, and what was more important, she would have a new feeling of responsibility toward it and a somewhat incredulous knowledge that she, plain Mary Brown, could do something about it.

"Furthermore it did not seem to make any difference where she started, though of course it was easiest for her to see results on the level of the city hall or county courthouse. But if she was led to actual participation in getting a merit system in her state government or of renewing the reciprocal trade agreements, she would come out with exactly the same realistic understanding of how governmental wheels go round, as well as a few sound ideas on how to improve the situation."

"As leagues around the country observed this process work out, they began to stress it more consciously as the real purpose of the organization. Local leagues began to measure themselves on how nearly they came to giving each member one such experience in citizenship in the course of a year. The program of work became, therefore, not merely a goal but a means. In a real sense it is a curriculum, student-created and student-taught."

From this small beginning, the enquiring league member finds that a whole field of new interests has been opened up to her, and in the great majority of cases becomes an intelligent, functioning citizen for the rest of her life.

Glens Falls, N. Y. — Spearheaded by Glens Falls post 233 of the American Legion, residents of this city plan to give a 19-year-old blinded marine and his bride-to-be a $10,000 home, built to the couple's taste, on a site to be selected by them.

Pvt. Butterfield lost the sight of both eyes when he was shot by a Jap sniper in the South Pacific area while trying to rescue a wounded buddy.

Modern Thinking for a Modern World

"Modern Man Is Obsolete" by Norman Cousins.

This is a discussion of the revolutionary world changes which the knowledge of atomic energy will necessitate.

"New Crops for a New World" by C. M. Wilson.

One of the most interesting chapters in this book, is the one about Brazil telling of its advances in agriculture, especially of the culture of silk worms. In the northern part of the country there may be twelve crops per year. Mexico and Argentina also raise silk worms.

As in this country the aim of the progressive countries is to diversify agriculture. Cultivation of various medicinal plants, cotton and rubber is discussed.

"What Is Farming?" by Gustav Larson and W. M. Teller.

Originally prepared for the U.S. Armed Forces institute, this is a guide for laymen, farm owners, as well as practical farmers.

What it takes to be a farmer — kinds of farming, buildings and tools, records, selecting a farm, opportunities.

"General Education on a Free Society," Harvard committee.

In spite of its origins, the report is not concerned primarily with collegiate education, but with problems of general education. It is predicted that in these post war years, a larger number of young people will stay in school until their 18th birthday.

"Education for Responsible Living" by Wallace E. Donham.

"There is, of course, good reason why in a nation like ours, church and state should be separated. Nor is the widespread separation of church and education subject to criticism. Nevertheless, the omission of any real emphasis in American colleges on the essentials of religion and with it the lessened emphasis on human hopes, ideals, aspirations, emotions and sentiments is a national calamity. Surely, ways can be found to turn out men who will be interested less in material success as such and more in the satisfactions which come from service to family, neighbor, state and country."

"Masters of Mass Education" by Christy Borth.

As the author lived for some time in Detroit and watched the development of its large industries, he was well qualified to write this story of American in-

The responsibility of the committee will be to study the operations of the amended bill and report on any new changes that experience may show to be necessary.

Veterinarians to Meet in Springfield, Ill., January 17 and 18

Veterinarians from throughout the state will confer in Springfield January 17 and 18 on gains accomplished in their drive on animal and poultry diseases by which it is estimated they have saved millions of dollars in 1945 for the farmers and the general public of Illinois.

It will be the first annual meeting of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association since the lifting of gasoline rationing and the wartime limitations on size of gatherings. Record breaking attendance of 400 to 500 is predicted, both because of the new "freedom of travel" and the importance of the subjects to be discussed by the practitioners.

Dr. James A. Butterworth and Nelson S. Mayo are Highland Park members of the association.
