What It Means To Be An American Is Rabbi Shulman's Topic

This Friday evening at the North Shore Congregation Israel, Lincoln and Vernon, Glencoe, Rabbi Charles E. Shulman will speak on "What It Means to be an American."

The trend of current international events makes it imperative for the American to understand America and his country's influence in world affairs.

The individual has a tremendous responsibility by virtue of the rights and blessings that he owns under his system of government. This week's sermon points to the tasks before us and the destiny toward which we can labor by true application of the democratic principle, not only here, but wherever our influence is felt throughout the world.

Visitors are cordially invited to the regular weekly services on Friday at 8:15 p.m.
