Couplet-Sonnet

A new-born thought that lifts its wings in air
Has unknown realms of beauty and despair
To travel, and a vast similitude
Of other thoughts that someone once thought good
To fence with — parry — and to sometimes thrust
Before descending to the lowly dust;
Where, unprotected, standing on their own,
They live or die infinitely alone;
O, thoughts of mine! what tensely troubled things
To loose upon the world with wayward wings!
How shall I send you forth, that you may fare
On equal terms with other thoughts that share
The vast dimensions of our time and place,
That you may hold your own — or lead the race?

My Lord's Candles

Usually I make several pilgrimages during the week to the end of our street, which is about half a mile long. There is always something new for me in the rare and beautiful coloring and formation of these California blooms. Some of them are one inch in diameter and composed of hundreds of tiny florets.

One day I saw what were apparently surveyor stakes driven in along the curbing. That meant new neighbors. Also the For Sale sign was gone from another vacant lot. It was evident that there would be several new houses going up, and what a grand time I was going to have watching them being built!

A few days later I had company on my pilgrimage. The others were interested in thistle bloom and wild oats, neither of which had any attraction for me. I was looking at the other side of the canyon where there were more surveyor's stakes higher than the ones I had first seen. I mentally gave the surveyor credit for good sense, since it would be much easier to see them over the tops of the underbrush than to have to cut a path from one to the other.

I said nothing to the others, for I have often been called too practical. Secretly, I was making great plans about how I would watch every building go up and get first hand information as to how building was done in California.

On my next trip to the end of the street I went alone. To my amazement, I saw that the surveyor's stakes on the other side of the canyon were still higher than the ones I had last seen. And they looked as though they had been painted white. I went back to the house for my field glasses. It was then I discovered that the stakes were really yucca blooms.

Yuccas grow from 8 to 12 feet tall, and the upper three feet are a mass of bloom. They are protected by law. It's fine and imprisonment for anyone caught picking the bloom or digging the root.

They are called "My Lord's Candles." Isn't that a pretty name?

SOCIALS

William Scindler Jr. of Northbrook, served the bridegroom as best man, and Ralph Wagner and Howard Borchardt ushered.

A dinner at the Orrington hotel in Evanston for the immediate families and bridal party followed the wedding. Two hundred and fifty guests attended the reception that evening at the Masonic temple.

After a southern honeymoon, the young couple will reside in Camp Campbell, Ky., where Sgt. Meier is stationed. He has been in the service for 3 1/2 years and expects to be released in January.

Out-of-town guests besides the bridegroom's parents and sister of Tampa, were Mr. and Mrs. August A. Guhl, John Guhl, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Elberg, relatives of the bridegroom from St. Charles, Ill., and Miss Ida Brum of Chicago.

CONSIDER LOCAL MAN FOR ISLAND GOVERNOR

On Sunday evening, Walter Winchell announced on his radio program over WENR that George K. Bowden of 95 Ravinia Ct. is the favorite of those being considered for the governorship of Puerto Rico.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Bruce Johnson, Colleen Kelly, Frederick and Susie Martin and Patty and Kathie McHugh were the party guests on Sunday afternoon of Lynn Carey, daughter of the Walter J. Careys of 1335 Broadway avenue. Frederick and Susie are cousins of Lynn's from Evanston. The occasion was Lynn's fifth birthday.

MARY FINK MARRIED

On Sunday, June 30, Miss Mary Catherine Fink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fink of 637 W. Park avenue, and Morris F. Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Willis of St. Louis, Mo., were united in marriage in the rectory of Immaculate Conception church at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Edmund Skoner read the service.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a white dress with chiffon bodice, made with a sweetheart neckline, and full net skirt. Her fingertip veil hung from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Rosemary Berube, maid of honor, wore a dress similar to the bride's, in blue, and carried a cascade of pink roses.

Angelo Caraffi of St. Louis served the bride as best man.

The bride's mother wore a dress of yellow print crepe and the bridegroom's mother chose a dress of yellow flowered crepe. Both wore corsages of white carnations. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joe Broddard, wore a pink print dress.

The bridegroom, who was formerly a sergeant in the marine corps, served for 4 years, 3 years of that time overseas.

A reception at the Deerpath Inn, Lake Forest, followed. About 75 guests were present.

After a honeymoon at the Edgewater beach hotel in Chicago, Mr. Hagerman and his bride will be at home at 637 Park.

MONTICELLO GRADUATE

In last week's "Life" appeared pictures of the graduation and class day exercises at Monticello junior college. Jean Easton was a member of the graduation group. Her parents, the J. Mills Eastons, and her sisters, Joan and Judy, and brother, Jack, attended the commencement exercises on June 7. The Easton home is at 1320 Judson avenue.

AT DE PAUW SUMMER SESSION

Enrolled in the summer session at DePauw university is George C. Bichler, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Bichler of 208 Elmwood drive.

LOUIS SOEFKER TAKE SA BRIDE

St. Andrews Lutheran church in Park Ridge was the scene of the wedding of Miss Bernice Neetz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neetz of 207 Knight avenue, Park Ridge, and Louis John Soefker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Soefker of 2601 County Line road, on Saturday evening, June 29. The Rev. Siemonson read the service before an altar banked with white flowers.

Dressed in white, with a long train and veil, and carrying a bridal bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis, the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Herbert Mollenkamp, sister of the bride, wore light green and carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli. The bridesmaids were in dresses of peach and pale orchid, net over brocade silk. They carried fan-shaped bouquets of gladioli.

Ray Wildenhagen of Half Day served as best man, and Eldon Soefker, the bridegroom's brother, and Robert Neetz, brother of the bride, ushered.

The bride's mother was in pale blue print and her corsage was of pink carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore aqua and her corsage was also of pale pink carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Field House in Park Ridge.

After a two weeks' honeymoon in northern Wisconsin, the young couple will be at home at 2601 County Line road.

ATTENDED GIRLS STATE

Nancy Waggett, a Highland Park high school student, daughter of the F. G. Waggetts of 325 Marham avenue, was the first representative ever sent by the Highland Park D. A. R. to Girls State at MacMurray college in Jacksonville, Ill. Nancy will be next year's president of the C. A. R.

The American Legion sent Theo Zaeske, daughter of the Herman Zaeskes of 714 Ridgewood drive and Betsy O'Neill was sent as the representative chosen by the Deerfield American Legion.

Selected high school students of Illinois gather each year under the sponsorship of Illinois departments of the American Legion auxiliary at Girls and Boys States. The purpose is learning city, county, and state government through actual practice. The two-party system is actually worked out by the girls and boys.

Among the three hundred girls who attended this year from the Chicago area, three of that number were sent by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

On Monday, Governor Green gave a reception from 4 to 5 p.m. for the young people.

ALICE DORICK WEDS

The Rev. James Gleeson heard the exchange of nuptial vows on Saturday, June 29, at 10:30 a.m. when Alice Louise Dorick became the bride of James Neil Doyle at St. James church. The bride is the daughter of the William Doricks of 331 North avenue and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. W. E. Doyle of Galesburg, Ill.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore the same white marquisette wedding gown that her sister, Mary, wore two weeks ago when she became the bride of William McKanna at St. James church. Her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. William P. McKanna, sister of the bride, and another sister, Betty, attended as junior bridesmaid. The girls were in white dresses made exactly like, and they carried colonial bouquets of American Beauty roses.

William M. McKenna served as best man, and the ushers were William Doyle, brother of the bridegroom, Lt. Willis Terry III, and John Terry of Galesburg.

The bride's mother chose a light blue crepe dress, complemented by a pink flowered hat and gloves and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom was in black and her corsage was also of white carnations.

A breakfast was held at the Deerpath Inn in Lake Forest for the bridal party and the immediate families, and in the afternoon a reception was held there. Seventy-five guests attended.

Mr. Doyle and his bride are on a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin.

BACK HOME

CORN ON THE COLUMN

By "KERNEL" ALEX MacPHERSON

As it does every year, the Fourth of July is rolling around to provide us with another holiday. This year we have more reason to celebrate than at any time in our Nation's 159 years' existence. To those important few trail-blazers who made the U. S. what it is today, this column is patriotically dedicated.

PIONEERS FOR DEMOCRACY

The greatest pioneer spirit of any which concerns us as free Americans was that of an inspired group of American colonists who brought forth our Nation in the year 1787. It was on that star-spangled date that the government of the people, by the people and for the people was made certain and enduring.

Among the outstanding figures who were the pioneers of our democracy, we may recall such personalities as Richard Henry Lee, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, Patrick Henry, and Nathan Hale. These men, as but a sample number of many Americans striving to live as no other people had lived in the history of modern civilization, were pioneers in their field more than any group in other fields. Their very lives depended upon the final result of their venture. No compromise nor part-way success would console them. To the five mentioned patriots, representative of a multitude their equal in spirit, the course offered no opportunity to turn back. The desire for independence moved these men to become the true pioneers of America.

In the Virginian Revolution, pioneer Richard Henry Lee first said,

Alexander N. Pirie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogan of 1737 Pleasant avenue, on Saturday evening, June 15, at the Glencoe Union church. The Rev. Don Smith and the Rev. Robert Stubbs read the service.

Miss Erline Jones of Glencoe, in aqua lace and carrying white daisies, attended as maid of honor. Richard Doherty, who flew here from his home in Minneapolis, Minn., served the bridegroom as best man. The ushers were Edward Rogan, brother of the bridegroom, and Robert Erbach of Chicago.

The bride's aunt wore an aqua crepe dress and a pink tea rose corsage. The mother of the bridegroom chose a dress of light gray crepe and a corsage of yellow roses.

A former corporal, Mr. Pirie served for three years with the United States army, 18 months of that time in the Pacific theater. He plans to return to Lake Forest college in the fall to continue his studies which were interrupted by the war.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle in Glencoe.

Following a wedding trip to Minneapolis, the young couple will reside in Glencoe for the summer.

WEDDING GUESTS

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Sikorski of 272 Park are Mrs. Frank A. Meier, Sr., mother of the bridegroom, and his sister, Mrs. Gilbert S. Johnson, and daughters, Bonnie and Jo-Ann, of Tampa, Fla.

Here to attend the Lawrentz-Meier wedding last Saturday, they will remain with the Sikorskis for another week. Mrs. Sikorski is the bride's sister.
