

Deep and Shallows

Challenge

Men — are you ready
To ride tonight
The cluttered road
Without a light?

Or have you a monger
Ready for the blame,
And a nation willing
To bear the shame?

No — you are many,
And the world is small,
With no discipline
In the ranks at all.

—W. O. THOMPSON.

Our Friend Caesar

Last spring when the days began to grow longer, Sally and I went for a walk every evening right after dinner. That is when Sally didn't have an engagement or we didn't have company. We averaged about four nights a week. It was interesting. If we started early enough we could watch the houses in the canyon light up . . . the plane signal begin its red routine . . . the television put on its illumination.

The roads in these hills are of the "curlicue" variety, a few yards to the right, a few feet to the left, an incline and visa versa. But there is a lamp post at every turn. There are no sidewalks, everybody has to walk in the streets. Nobody drives fast, they don't dare to. We always know when we have a new driver up here, he'll honk at every turn — and what a racket he makes. Sound carries very far in these canyons.

The second night Sally and I meandered forth, as we neared a private road that led to a home on the top of the hill, we saw, looking over the curbing of this private road, what looked like a big dog.

Sally was a little frightened, but I've never been afraid of a dog and so I began to talk to him and asked him if he would like to take a walk with us. I called him "puppy," because he was young, but he was so terribly BIG — a Great Dane. He came down to the road and I put out my hand, talking to him all the while. He sniffed my hand and then put his great head under my hand. Of course I patted his head and then I took him over to Sally and she patted him too. Then we went on and he came along to the end of our road and we waited to see the moon come up.

It is a beautiful sight to see the moon shine over these different rows of hills.

When we started back we expected the dog to go up his road toward his home, but he didn't. He went with us all the way back, past our house and on to see the night view stretched over the larger portion of Los Angeles, with its millions of lights. There are some fourteen lights waving through the sky, sent out by the different theatres, to say nothing of the very powerful search light, sent out by the Hollywood Bowl, when something is going on there.

We are about 500 feet above the city. The dog seemed to enjoy the sight too, and stayed with us until we had our fill of the sight. When we reached our gate we told him we lived here, patted him some more, and told him he had better go home now. We also told him that if we went for a walk the next evening we would be glad to have him come with us.

The next evening when we turned the curve so we could see his road, there he was and when he saw us, he came bounding down his road and fairly danced with joy at seeing us. It took several minutes before we had him calmed down, and he went with us to the end of our road. He would get to the next curve before we would and if we dallied to look at something, he would come back to see what detained us, and would nuzzle my hand and ask Sally to pat him too.

At the end of our road some nasty person has dumped a lot of rubbish, and the dog, whom we've renamed Caesar, sniffs this pile every time he sees it. One night he hauled out of this pile a large shoe. He wouldn't let us touch him, but hurried on ahead, and when we reached his road there was nothing to be seen of Caesar. But we hadn't gone far when he came galloping along after us, and we finished our stroll as usual.

Since then he always takes something out of that pile, BUT HE DOESN'T take it home. He lays it alongside the road and we think he picks it up on his way back home, after leaving us at our gate.

This meeting with Caesar has gone on for months. He shows how glad he is to see us every time we meet by running around us and rubbing against us.

Sally goes off to school next week. None of this family cares to go walking. But I'll try it at least once, even if I have to go alone.

Annual DAR Party Will Be Held at Exmoor Country Club

Exmoor Country club, always so beautiful at this time of year, will be the scene of the annual D.A.R. dessert card party on Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 1:30.

Mrs. George Strecher, regent of the North Shore chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has appointed Mrs. Kellogg Patterson as general chairman in charge of arrangements. Assisting Mrs. Patterson is a large committee, including Mrs. Elmer W. Freytag and Mrs. John B. Wilbor as chairmen of refreshments, with Mrs. Earl W. Gsell and Mrs. Fred A. Watkins as chairmen of prizes.

The occasion promises to be delightful as well as worthy of support, for the proceeds from the party will all be used for worthwhile purposes, both local and national. Funds to carry on the work in the D.A.R. schools of the southern mountain districts and other approved schools, as well as for the Rehabilitation Center for Servicemen, maintained by the national society at Ellis Island, for local calls for contributions to charitable causes, and for the promotion of patriotic education and good citizenship, are all raised by this one large affair every year.

Carr Auxiliary Will Hold "Silver Tea"

It is hoped that many interested Highland Parkers, besides the members of the Helen Taylor Carr auxiliary of the Chicago Commons will attend the "Silver Tea" to be held at the home of Mrs. William Savin, 2333 Lakeside place, Friday, Sept. 27, from 3 to 5 p.m., for Miss Leah D. Taylor, daughter of Graham Taylor, founder of Chicago Commons, who has been its director since her father retired from that office, will tell of the present work of this Chicago neighborhood settlement with its stories of paths and of real accomplishment, and of the way in which those of us who live on the North Shore can help the inhabitants of a crowded city district.

The officers of this auxiliary are as follows: Chairman and treasurer, Mrs. Dudley Hall; vice-chairman, Mrs. Frank Venning; secretary, Mrs. Edwin P. Hart; chairman of the work committee, Mrs. Robert Billeter and chairman of publicity, Mrs. Arthur Raff. Plans for the coming year will be given by Mrs. Hall, and refreshments will be served.

Infant Welfare to Stress Sewing Output At Sept. 23 Meeting

Special emphasis on a large output of sewing will be made at the September meeting of the junior group of the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare auxiliary Monday, Sept. 23, at the home of Mrs. Gordon Buchanan Jr. 223 Moraine road.

No program or other special feature has been planned, in order not to interrupt the whirring of sewing machines and the hand stitching of clothes for the children cared for by the Infant Welfare stations, according to Mrs. Ralph Archer, president of the local group.

Mrs. Paul R. Trent, Mrs. Homer Sams, Mrs. Charles Bates and Mrs. Clarence Goelzer will assist.

Mrs. Archer has announced two new committees, in preparation for the end of the organization's year: the revisions committee, composed of Mrs. John F. Morrissey, chairman; Mrs. G. W. Smith and Mrs. T. L. Rehn; and the nominating committee, which includes, Mrs. Ralph Trieschmann, chairman; Mrs. Paul W. Jester, Mrs. Earl Wallis, Mrs. Robert Heck, and Mrs. George Ross.

Mrs. Jack Spachner Will Be Hostess to Highland Park Music Club

The first meeting of the 1946-47 season of the Highland Park Music club will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 2 p.m., at the home of Mrs. J. V. Spachner on Oakmont avenue on the lake front. Taking part in the program will be Mrs. Virginia Schur, well known as an accomplished pianist, who will play two groups, and a guest soprano, also a local resident, Miss Jean Nichols, a niece of Dr. C. V. Nichols and of Mrs. Julius Laegeler. Miss Nichols, whose voice promises a brilliant future, won the 1946 contest sponsored by the Society of American Musicians for young artists. She is a graduate of the Cosmopolitan school of music and is now studying with Miss Flora Waalkes. Miss Nichols will appear on the program in place of Miss Gloria Linari who is out of town. Miss Eloise Matthies, who will accompany Miss Nichols, appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra last year on the Young People's concerts.

Officers and directors of the Music club are the following: President, Mrs. Myles Dressler; first vice president, and program chairman, Mrs. Clarence Schaaf; 2nd vice president and chairman of hospitality, Mrs. George Hinn; treasurer, Mrs. Henry C. Hawes; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ernest Sundell; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul Mathews; member-at-large, Mrs. James E. Allen; chairman of trial board, Mrs. Don Cuthbertson; chairman of chorus, Mrs. Baker A. Hamilton, and chairman of publicity, Mrs. Arthur Raff.

DOROTHY HOBBS A BRIDE

The Levere Memorial chapel of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, on the Northwestern university campus, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Hobbs, daughter of Mrs. Clark Hobbs of Ravinia, and Robert Oliver Boehm, son of the B. J. Boehms of 753 S. Green Bay road, Saturday, Sept. 14, at 4:30.

The bride was given in marriage by Leonard Chapin Childs, a family friend. The gown she wore was of white satin, made with a long train, and her veil was full length. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and gardenias.

Mrs. William P. Hammond III (Betty Hobbs) of Crystal Lake attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a gown of hunter's green, with matching head-dress and shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of ivy and yellow gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Boehm, sister of the bridegroom, and Mesdames Edgar, Kurt and William Boehm, his sisters-in-law, were gowned in reverse of Mrs. Hammond. Their dresses and veils were of gold and their bouquets were of ivy and green gladioli.

B. J. Boehm served his son as best man, and Edgar Kurt and William Boehm acted as ushers for their brother, as did William Hammond III, Bud Buckley and Donald Sheridan.

The bride's mother was in a dress of aqua and silver and her orchid corsage and accessories of violet. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of raspberry crepe, complemented by a blue feathered hat and accessories, also of blue, and a gardenia corsage. Mrs. W. E. Clark of Ravinia, grandmother of the bride, wore aqua. Her accessories were black, and her corsage was of gardenias.

Miss Hobbs attended Northwestern university and the University of Iowa, and has been a stewardess with American Airlines for the past year. Mr. Boehm attended the University of Wisconsin, prior to entering the service. He plans to return to Madison to school this fall.

A reception was held in the Panhellenic room in the chapel. After a short wedding trip, Mr. Boehm and his bride will reside in Madison.

A number of showers and parties preceded the wedding.

BACK HOME

Back home from a two months' trip to the west coast is Mrs. R. K. Carver of 332 Central avenue. Her sister-in-law, Miss Priscilla Carver, who accompanied her there, left after a month's visit, and has just returned from a month spent in Vermont. Miss Carver also resides at 332 Central.

On Thursday, the Lester J. Kellys and their daughter, Colleen, of 1317 Broadway, returned from a trip around Lake Michigan. They spent a few days at the Grand hotel in Mackinac Island, and a few days at the Gateway inn in the Land o' Lakes, Wis.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the time of her birthday, Aug. 5, most of Gretchen Ahrens' friends were vacationing, so last Saturday she was hostess at a belated luncheon and theater party, celebrating the occasion. Gretchen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Ahrens of 202 Beech street.

PREVOST-TAMARRI NUPTIALS

On Saturday, Sept. 14, at 9:30 a.m., Miss Jeanne A. Prevost became the bride of Dominic Tamarrri, at St. James church, Highwood, the Rev. James Gleeson reading the service. Miss Prevost is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Cascarelli of 244 No. Green Bay road, and Mr. Tamarrri is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tamarrri of 430 N. Central, Highwood. Gowned in white satin and wearing a long veil with a train, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bouquet she carried was of white orchids surrounded by white asters.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Bartoni, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Betty Calzia and Geraldine Baruffi, were dressed alike in pink. They all carried purple asters.

The flower girl, little Alicia Pearson, was dressed in blue, and she carried a basket of asters.

Nello Tamarrri served his brother as best man, and Adolph Rosellini and Burno De Bartolo ushered.

The mothers of the bridal couple wore corsages of yellow roses. Mrs. Cascarelli was in a gray suit and Mrs. Tamarrri wore a navy blue dress.

A breakfast for the immediate families and the bridal party followed the ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents. A dinner was held in the afternoon at the bride's home and in the evening a reception was held at Witten hall.

After a two weeks' honeymoon in the east, the young couple will reside in an apartment on N. Sheridan road, Highland Park.

GAIL-DEVLIN WEDDING TODAY

Gowned in white brocade taffeta and carrying a bouquet of white gladioli and rubrum lilies, Miss Mildred Gail, daughter of Mrs. Thomas H. Gail of 317 Bloom street, will become the bride of John H. Devlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of Virginia, Ill., today, Sept. 19, at 4, in the rectory of the Immaculate Conception church. Ernest S. Gail, uncle of the bride, will give her in marriage.

Maid of honor will be Miss Eleanor Strain of Harvard. She will wear a light blue taffeta gown, and carry a bouquet of American Beauty red gladioli.

Murray Chud of Detroit will serve as best man.
