What kind of a man

do you want as your Mayor?

THE City of Highland Park is like a corporation in which every citizen is a stockholder. You, as one of those 16,000 odd stockholders, have a very personal interest in the manner in which your city's affairs are managed.

Through bond issues and taxes your city collects money. These public funds are spent to provide various services for the benefit of you and the other residents of Highland Park. Such services as police protection, fire protection, zoning and building regulation, maintenance of streets, etc.

During the year just past, the city was responsible for the collection and administration of $550,000. That's a lot of money. It's the equivalent of a substantial business.

The money is used to pay salaries of city employees, to buy materials, supplies and equipment, to maintain streets, city buildings, etc.

Now where does the Mayor fit into this picture? What's the Mayor's job?

The Mayor is the president of this corporation in which you have a vital interest. He's the executive head of the business. He coordinates and directs the various city departments which serve you. He oversees the spending of public funds. It's his responsibility to see that the city's business affairs are managed with efficiency, and that the city's funds are spent with the greatest care to insure that maximum value is received for every dollar spent.

The Mayor's job is a job for a business man. That's clear. It's a job for a man with broad experience in the administration of large business affairs, with proved executive ability, with good judgment and a knowledge of financial management.

Robert F. Walker is a man eminently well qualified for the job. The citizens of Highland Park are fortunate indeed to have available a man of Walker's calibre who is willing to serve as Mayor if elected.

Robert F. Walker just recently retired as vice president and director of one of the country's largest advertising companies. In this capacity, he planned and directed for some of the nation's largest and best-known corporations advertising programs which involved the expenditure of many millions of dollars.

Previous to that, he was vice-president, general sales manager and a director of the Jewel Tea Company. His business experience covers 48 years. He has lived in Highland Park for 25 years with his wife and two children, and is a member of the Presbyterian church.

Doesn't it make sense to you to have as the directing head of the city's business affairs a seasoned and experienced business man? If so, you'll want to cast your vote for Robert F. Walker.

The WALKER for MAYOR Committee
F. J. NOSEK, Chairman

Your right to vote is your most priceless possession.
