HELEN KEE, A BRIDE

A very pretty wedding took place at Bethany Evangelical Church on Saturday, July 12, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening when Miss Helen Louise Kee became the bride of Daniel Arthur Vetter. The Rev. Lester Laubenstein heard the exchange of nuptial vows in the double ring candlelight ceremony. On either side of the altar were huge baskets of white and pink carnations. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus W. Kee of N. Second Street, and the Arthur Vetter of Detamble avenue are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was lovely in a white satin gown made with long sleeves pointed over the hand, and a short train. The neckline was made with lattice work and embroidery. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, white sweetpeas and stephanotis. Her father gave her in marriage

Chester Kyle, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Laubenstein, sang.

Miss Rosemary Kropke, maid of honor, wore an off the shoulder gown of pink, and carried a bouquet of matching carnations with the same flowers forming a halo in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Miss Valerie Vetter, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Phyllis Owens of Indianapolis, Indiana, were in gowns of blue, made exactly like the maid of honor's. The halos of flowers in their hair were of the same blue carnations as their bouquets.

Little Charlotte Wilson, daughter of the Kenneth Wilsons, of N. Green Bay road, flower girl, was dressed like the bridesmaids and carried a bouquet of the same flowers in miniature.

Robert Fiocchi served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were William Kee, brother of the bride, and Lawrence Vetter, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother chose an aqua print dress with brown accessories complemented by a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of white and black print and her corsage of carnations, was pink.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. William De Kann of Waukegan, was in a pink print dress with a black hat with pink roses and black accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Sunset Valley Club. About one hundred and fifty attended.

After a northern honeymoon, the young couple will reside at 215 N. Second street until the home they are building in Northbrook, is completed.

Fired with the idea of getting a slant on the food preserving methods of the ancients, we've been huddled deep in our library chair again. It was very profitable and pleasant huddling, too. We came across an extraordinary collection of ancient English recipes. Completely fascinated by the odd spelling and wording, we selected four of the recipes to be reproduced in our story—one, a gift to a well-known fourteenth-century king from his apple-polishing chefs, is for marmalade, another for delectable preserved eel. We found an incredible story of a fatal sweet tooth. We opened the Receipt Book of an eighteenth-century glamour-puss, but not until we had read her diary. Nosy, aren't we? Glamour-puss had plenty of admirers and she encouraged them all. Yes, we've included excerpts. Another early preserving expert was a top flight inventor during the Elizabethan period. Our jaw dropped unbecomingly when we realized that we wear one of his inventions and that many people stumble over another—and we do mean stumble! The old English masters and mistresses of the art of preserving had a fine disregard for quantities, and cooking time and temperature, but their antiquated recipes have great charm. Our story? THE ARTE OF PRESERVING. Sketches? Yes, by Jonathan McKee.
