This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

We go to a County Fair. We wander through the bright sunshine and dusty grass and down the streets of booths and flapping tents. We visit the Exhibit Halls. We ogle the colossal fruits and vegetables and the mouthwatering jellies and preserves. We eavesdrop shamelessly as two women inspect the quilt which defeated their entries. We exclaim over massive Percherons and Belgians. In the Hog Pavilion, two old-timers recall the old days and the "Green Pig." We join the audience at the Judging Tent in time to see a rousing battle. We have a hot chicken dinner in the Ladies Aid Tent. We head for the harness races. The trotters thunder away. We scream encouragement. We drink orangeade. We watch the entertainment at intermission. At night we promenade the Midway. We listen to the bawling pitchmen and hawkers, the medicine man, and the brassy voiced barkers. We watch a flirtation on the merry-go-round. We try our hand in the shooting galleries. We have our fortune told. And we give our impressions of the day in THE COUNTY FAIR. Illustrations are by Mister McKee.
