LIBRARY

Although the hustle and bustle of Fall days is here again and everyone is busy planning his schedule for the winter months, you will want to leave some of your time for reading as the Highland Park Library has many interesting new books you will not want to overlook in the rush of your other activities.

Among the new books is a fascinating collection of ghost stories edited by Edward Wagenknecht and entitled "The Fireside Book of Ghost Stories." The tales of such writers as Joseph Shearing, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Daphne DuMaurier, Cynthia Asquith, Henry James, J. Sheridan Le Fanu and L. A. G. Strong are included. Haunted rooms and haunted houses, graveyards and midnight spectres all abound, but not all the stories deal with unfriendly ghosts. There are tales as well of the kindly dead, the missioned spirits who return to earth to perform deeds of good and establish faith in benevolence beyond and of famous personages who return after death to re-enact their living roles. The stories in this anthology are all true masterpieces which will delight the connoisseur of this type of literature.

Those of you who have enjoyed the "Look at America" books dealing with the Southwest and New England will be happy to know that the newest in the series prepared by LOOK magazine, "Look at America: the Central Northwest," is now available to Highland Park Library patrons. The territory covered in this book includes nearly a third of the United States—the rich prairies of Kansas and Nebraska, the fertile high plains of the Dakotas, the cattle country of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, "the wide open spaces" where cowhands still ride the range much as they did in the old days. Farther west is the great Rocky Mountain Range with its many national parks, including Zion, Bryce Canyon, Yellowstone and Glacier. These interesting places and many others are all pictured in one of the finest collections of photographs ever made of the United States. In addition to the pictures there is an informative text and road maps as well so that the book may actually serve as a guide, if you are planning to tour that part of the country.

The Library also has a new book which will be of interest to historians and all admirers of Abraham Lincoln. It is the "Uncollected Works of Abraham Lincoln," assembled and annotated by a Lincoln authority, Rufus Rockwell Wilson. The book, which contains many of the letters, addresses and other papers of Lincoln is not only of great importance historically, but also furnishes some very interesting reading.

The Library's recent additions have not all been in the field of non-fiction, however. Several entertaining novels have also found their way to our shelves in the past several weeks. One of the most popular is Edward Havill's story, "Big Ember." Big Ember is the name of a town in Minnesota where Guri Erickson and her family come to live back in the homestead days. The book tells of their struggles with nature and the Indians in their effort to make a home for themselves in the new country. There were many crises, worst of which was the terrifying massacre and attack made by their Redskin neighbors, but these difficulties served only to strengthen the determination of the Eriksons and others like them to build their land onto something finer and stronger than it had ever been before.

United Church Pastor Is Returned For Fourth Year

Rev. R. S. Wilson, Pastor of the 1st United Evangelical Church of Highland Park, was returned to serve the church for the fourth year by the annual conference of his denomination which convened last week in Akron, Ohio. According to the practice of denominations following the assignment system, he received his reappointment at the close of the annual conference, when the Presiding Bishop, A. W. Cooper read the list which would apply for the year.

A former pastor of the Highland Park congregation, Rev. F. C. Robinson was moved from Youngstown, Ohio, to Canton, Ohio. Rev. George Ralph, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ralph Sr., of 425 McDaniels Ave., was transferred from Trinity Mission in Akron, Ohio where he has been pastor for one year, to become the pastor of Grace Church in Findlay, Ohio. Rev. N. J. Broadway of Dixon, Ill., who is well known because of frequent visits to the local congregation, was elected Presiding Elder to supervise the work of the entire conference. He replaces Rev. Q. A. Deak of Akron, Ohio, who is going to the Old Folks Home at Myerstown, Pa., as a Supervisor. Rev. Fred Cunningham of Norwood Heights Church in Chicago is transferred to the pulpit made vacant in Dixon by the election of Pastor Broadway to supervisory work.

Pastor Wilson returned from the conference on Thursday and was scheduled to preach in the pulpit both Sunday morning and evening. Charles B. Thorson of North Avenue was the lay delegate for the congregation at the conference.

Frozen fish filets will be available to consumers soon. Packaged in one pound boxes like candy, they can be sliced into any size portion and cooked in a skillet or oven without defrosting.

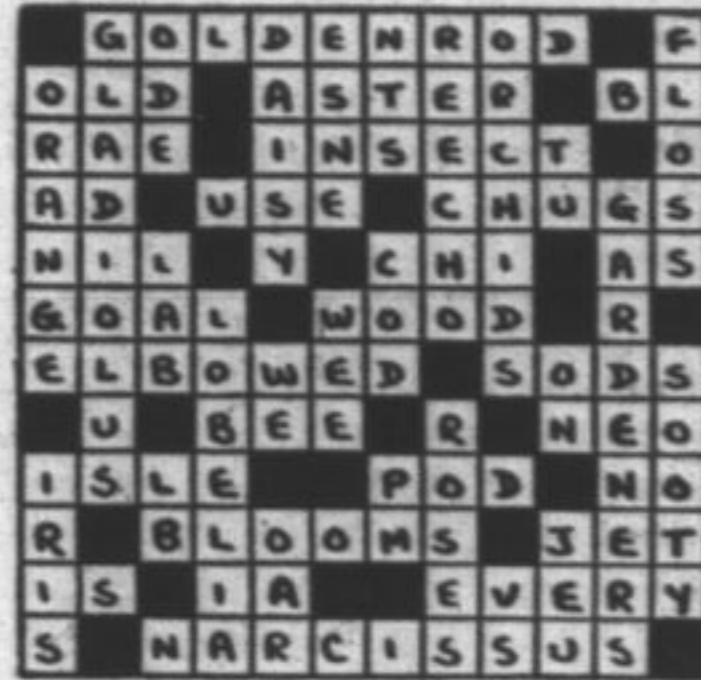

A packing tip! Don't risk spilling your precious perfume and ruining your clothes. Instead, light a candle and let the hot wax drip around the neck to seal it tightly.

There's a new iron on the market that's light in weight—around three pounds—and designed especially to do a professional job on ruffles and pleats without burning in the rear while you're doing the job.

Here's a frosting recipe I know you'll like as much as I do: As you will see it makes a large amount, but it will keep in the refrigerator for two or three weeks. Cream a half pound of vitaminized margarine with 1 1/2 pounds powdered sugar. Add an unbeaten egg and continue to cream. Gradually add a cup of orange juice and cream until light and fluffy. Lastly, mix in a little orange rind.

An egg shortage is predicted for next winter with prices running high. Buyer interest is waning and chick production is 5% to 10% lower than last season.

They say a new jellied salad will be on the market soon. All you do is chill the can in the refrigerator then it's ready to slice and serve with real mayonnaise, for no salad would be complete without real mayonnaise to add the final note of flavor.
