"So I simply made a telephone call..."

Few things are more simple than making a telephone call. Few are more complex than making that call possible.

There are 316 separate parts in the manual type telephone alone; 433 parts in the dial type. But the telephone itself is only 1/17th of all the equipment Illinois Bell needs to put your calls through—wires, cables, batteries, switchboards with millions of connections. All kinds of apparatus and buildings to house it.

As more telephones are added, the equipment needed per telephone multiplies. Today, every time you make a telephone call, you set in motion a system which grows more and more complex for us to operate as it becomes easier and faster for you to use.

A $250,000,000 improvement program is bringing better telephone service your way.
