Notes About Our Town And Our Bachelor Days End

Let's begin with a tribute to our police force—one of the most alert and most vigilant of its size in the nation. They're a fine group of men—the Moroney brothers, Chief Patton, Larson, Moon, True and all the others. They're stern, yet friendly. They're intelligent, understanding and right thoughtful. They're sympathetic, too. But, most of all, they love our town, and they're really conscientious about wanting to make it clean, safe, and an excellent place to live.

The other night we reported an unlighted car had been parked on our street for a few days and we thought the police should know about it.

We picked up the phone, got the police department at once (thanks to the able and courteous operators we have), talked with young Ed Moroney, told him our story, and two minutes later a squad car was here, piloted by likeable Leonard Larson.

NEAT, CLEAN-CUT
Officer Larson, neat, clean-cut, smartly attired, immediately checked the car, obtained a lot of information about it in a short time, reported his findings at once back to headquarters where license information was checked to determine the owner of the car.

We bring this up to show you Highland Parkers how lucky you are to have a police force that's on its collective toes, always ready, always making certain everything in Highland Park is protected, particularly property, personal and otherwise.

Here was just another minor incident: A parked car without lights; a car that nobody in the immediate neighborhood could identify.

Despite its seeming unimportance, our police force checked it at once.

We don't know about you folks, but we surely feel safe in this grand town of ours.

Thanks a lot, you policemen, for your great work.

SECRET CLIPPING IN THE MAIL

Now and then we get unsigned letters in the mail. We usually read them over and if they require attention, it's given at once.

And then, now and then, we get a newspaper clipping which attempts to prove, or disprove, a point which landed in this pillar of type.

We got one the other day.

Local PTA Groups With Cast of Sixty To Present Variety Show

What promises to be Highland Park's outstanding amateur show of the season will take place at Elm Place School, Friday night, March 19th.

Combining their talents, the two PTA's of Elm Place and Green Bay Schools are expecting to wow their audience with Jack Pincus' new play "See Here, Brother."

A cast of sixty is being directed by two top theatrical performers, Mrs. Graham Marks and Mrs. Richard Haffner. Mr. Pincus' play "As Night the Day," which had its premier here recently, met with unusual success and the putting on of his "See Here Brother", based on The Great Book's courses current in town, is expected to be sprinkled with side splitters and equally successful.

In the Variety Show last year at the school some top talent blossomed forth who will be present in this year's skits.

The proverbial tired business man, should he come to the show, will hear about and see "The Computers Special of The Future"—man takes train into Chicago—rings in sky-scape lounge chair—gets shave and shine while dummy plays his hand of cards—robot hands him a package, no matter whether he had one on boarding the train or not—someone from somewhere even goes to the office for him. This train of the future you'll really have to see to believe.

The skit on the Esquire Girl Calendar will be a humorous, human calendar to stop all attempts at this thing by future generations. The Men's Brief Ballet will be hot enough to bake the arthritis out of your bones. Women may come and learn in a skit known as "Men Of Distinction." The take-off on "Annie Get Your Gun" will make you wonder what the real show boasted. "How to Write a Detective Story" will give unbounded encouragement to every man with suppressed ambition.

To the Thursday night dress rehearsal the children will be admitted free. For the show Friday a small admission was agreed upon over avowed opinion that scalper would quadruple the price. For ticket information Mr. or Mrs. Irving Goldberg should be contacted.

Mens Fellowship To Hear Herald-American Newsmen
Wesley Hartzell, newswriter with the Chicago Herald American is the speaker slated for the monthly Mens Fellowship of the First United Evangelical Church, for Monday, March 15 at 8 p.m. All men of the community are welcome. The speaker has been on the staff of the Hearst paper for several years, and two years ago accompanied the Youth for Christ team which made a tour of Europe under the leadership of Torrey Johnson, Chicago pastor. The speaker is a resident of Northbrook, but is active in the work of the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle founded by the late Paul Rader. He will have a message dealing with the relationship between the newspaper and the churches.

City Table Tennis Tournaments At Center

The City Table Tennis tournament will start to-day (Thursday) at the Highland Park Community Center at 3:30 P.M. in the first four divisions; Junior boys under 15, junior girls under 15, and intermediate boys and girls under 18. John McNellis, Director of the Highwood Community Center will act as chairman of the North Shore tournament, assisted by Ed Roberts and George Ekdahl of the Lake Forest Young Mens Club, Howard Copp, Supt. of Recreation in Highland Park, Mel Mullins, Director of the Highland Park Community Center, Ed Menke of Highland Park and W. C. Shnur of Glencoe.

SO LONG, BACHELORDOM
As seconds tick by we near the altar to take wedding vows. Bachelor days are just about over. They were gay, full, interesting days . . . but, somehow, not complete. It is right for a man to marry. It is right for a woman to marry. It makes a complete life . . . and that's the kind we want. There're so many happily married folks in Highland Park that the writer had become kind of envious. So, one day we wrote a column about bachelordom. No sooner had the PRESS ceased onto newsstands than a letter arrived. An unsigned letter. The writer of that letter, after some sleuthing, turned out to be our next door neighbor. And she'll be our companion for life. So, farewell, bachelor days. Welcome, married life! Ed's note: Seems to us, Whitt, that you're a pretty good sleuth yourself.
