Peter B. Biggins Delivers Lecture On Christian Science

On Tuesday evening, April 6th, Peter B. Biggins, C.S.B., a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture on Christian Science entitled "Christian Science: The Religion of Today", under the auspices of the local Christian Science Church.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

A few years ago, some travelers stopping at a railway station in what is known in the United States as the Middle West, witnessed a memorable scene. A band of young American soldiers stood in the station. Erect and alert, they joined in song, with the harmony and vigor of a well-trained choir. There was something impressive and ennobling in the way they raised their voices in song. It symbolized the power and unity of divine law.

Scientific religion meets the most exacting demands of modern thought in just such ways. It satisfies the deepest longings of the human heart. It appeals to sound reason. It affords the solution of problems in human activities and relationships. It ensures health, security, and progress. It provides the basis of true self-government, prosperity, complete satisfaction, and abiding happiness. It promotes mutual understanding among men and nations. Christian Science measures up to these reasonable requirements by extending its ministry to the healing of sickness as well as of sin; it is essentially the religion of today.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science has written in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 150) "To-day the healing power of Truth is widely demonstrated as an immanent, eternal Science, instead of a phenomenal exhibition. Its appearing is the coming anew of the gospel of 'on earth peace, good-will toward men.'"

Mrs. Eddy had gained the true vision of the Christ, the spiritual idea of God. Her spiritual perception grew ever clearer as her experience ripened and her demonstration advanced. John on Patmos recorded his vision of "a new heaven and a new earth," and his book of Revelation remains as part of the canonical writings now comprised in the Bible. So, too, Mrs. Eddy wrote her vision, and it is preserved in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Here she records the reality of being, the true nature of God, man, and the universe as spiritual, harmonious, and immortal; and she makes clear the application of this truth to the healing of disease and to the solution of all human problems.

The young American soldiers sang their song in victorious tones. So the Christian metaphysician, trained through Christian Science, sings his song of victory over evil through the demonstration of the omnipotence of good.

On New Year's morning, 1910, a happy group of Christian Scientists gathered in the home of our beloved Leader, Mrs. Eddy. While she was with them, she wrote contemporaneously a poem, which expresses the harmony of being which she had devoted her well-spent, fruitful life to exemplify. Her lifework has restored to active use the practice of Christ's Christianity, the religion of today, "the same yesterday, and today, and forever." This is one of the verses of that poem written by our Leader, now published in "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany" (p. 354):

"Give us not only angels' songs,
But Science vast, to which belongs
The tongue of angels
And the song of songs."
