Library Displays Prize-Winning Designs For Better Rooms

Home-makers, interior decorators, artists and designers, there's a treat in store for you at the Highland Park Public Library. On display at the library now and for the rest of the month of August will be many of the prize winning designs from the Chicago Tribune's recent $26,250 "Better Rooms for Better Living" competition.

Seven types of rooms are included among the designs. They are living room, dining room, combination living-dining room, master bedroom, juvenile bedroom. Although all the designs are of truly prize-winning caliber, the newest ideas for efficient modern home interiors, according to the judges of the contest, were developed by the designers who entered their plans for the kitchen. Also some unusually clever and interesting ideas were worked out in the designs for the combination living and dining room, which seems to be ever growing in popularity among new home builders.

The designs not only present general ideas for furnishing and decorating homes, but also go into specific detail concerning the utilization of the newest materials, techniques, colors and style trends. New room arrangements, new colors to adapt to the house, new creations in furniture, floor coverings, draperies and accessories are all considered by the various plans in the display.

In all, there are 161 prize winning designs which were selected from over 1,600 entries by five authorities comprising a Jury of Awards. Members of this jury were McStay Jackson, president of the McStay Jackson company, industrial and interior designers, Chicago; Marie Kirkpatrick, furniture designer, Grand Rapids, Michigan; Marc T. Nielson, national board chairman of the American Institute of Decorators, Chicago; Sterling B. McDonald, industrial designer and consultant; and Myer R. Rogers, curator of the department of decorative and industrial arts at the Chicago Art Institute.

First prize in all the seven categories was $1,000. Second prize for each type of room was $500; third prize, $250; and fourth through twenty-third was $100 each.

Youngest of the prize winners was David Spitzel, 5 years old, who shared the $250 prize won by Reginald C. Knight of East Aurora, N. Y. in the juvenile bedroom of the contest. "I used David and his personality as a guide in designing", Knight advised contest officials, "and he is to receive 10 per cent of the prize as we agreed."

Many Chicago and North Shore suburban designers who are well known to Highland Parkers are included among the winners.

Whether you are planning to do some interior decorating yourself, or are just interested in homes and home furnishings, the display is well worth seeing, so plan to stop in at the library any time before the end of the month. There's no telling how many ideas you may pick up and be able to utilize to advantage in your own home now or later on.

Recreation Department Class "A" League

Three teams tied for first place honors a week ago Wednesday in the Class A League when Fells defeated the League leading V.F.W. Jrs. 12-4. Mel Harder pitched another of his brilliant games allowing but 2 hits. All four runs against him came in the 7th inning on errors. An overthrow to third base by the catcher accounted for 3 of the runs.

Santis defeated Harrison Wholesale in a well played game 3-2. Santis scored the winning run in the 7th inning when Coleman hit a long fly ball to bring in the winning run from third base. This win put Santis in the play-off.

The three teams will play a series of games to determine the League champion. The first game of the series was played last Friday evening between Fells and Santis, the game going to Fells 8-7. This game was packed full of thrills. Santis scored first when Minorini walked and M. Santi followed with a triple. A long fly scored Santi giving them a 2 run lead. In the 2nd inning Eddie Moore hit a home run with a man on base to tie the score. Santis scored 1 run in the 3rd inning, 3 runs in the 4th and 1 in the 5th to give them a 7-2 lead. It looked as though the game was in the bag but in the last half of the 5th inning Fells came back with 6 runs to take the lead. Sammy Rexford who had pitched a good game to that point was replaced by Mel Harder who struck out 4 men in the 2 remaining innings and held Santis scoreless, Fells winning the game 8-7.

Last night the V.F.W. and Santis were scheduled to play the second game of the series, the winner of that game to play Fells tomorrow, Friday, for the League championship.

The game starts at 7:00 p.m. Come out and watch these teams play. You will get a pleasant surprise. Mel Harder, by the way, has been doing some fine work pitching night games for the V.F.W. team. He won his two starts of the season recently when Bob Minor, their regular pitcher, was unable to be present.
