This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

CONSTITUTION DAY coming, we've been gathering biographical bits on the thirty-nine men who on September 17, 1787, at the Philadelphia Convention signed the Constitution of the United States. Two of the thirty-nine signers met death on the dueling ground. Two of them were arrested by our government but never brought to trial. One endorser invented the bi-focals—and for a very personal reason. Another introduced the lush hot-house and the ice-house to America. One gentleman lost a leg, another a sweetheart. One was a fisherman, another a golfer. One came to this country because of his health, another because of a hurricane. One delegate who was a lawyer bickered with his son-in-law. Another, who was a lawyer, after winning a legal battle, was buttonholed by the losing party and . . . but you'll read about it in this month's story which is full of biographical bits on the signers of Our Constitution.
