

Deep and Shallow

Something New In Hollywood

I was enjoying my afternoon nap when I heard: "It's too bad to waken you, but you must see the sight." The sight turned out to be a heavy fall of snow. Snow in Hollywood! But seeing is believing. I couldn't see the television station nor the hills at the end of our canyon. When the snow stopped after about 15 minutes the landscape wore a veil of white—very pretty. The radio began broadcasting similar conditions in other districts.

Next morning daughter came into my room. "You may have seen the unusual yesterday, but look today." She handed me my spectacles. Not a red, gray, pink or brown roof, nor a green leaf, was to be seen. Everything was white. What a shock. I think Miami has the last laugh.

A friend went to Palm Springs, the winter resort of winter resorts, for two days and had to stay seven.

When the roads were passable, trucks had the right of way first. Later two passenger cars were allowed between trucks. The price of chains went skyward, and cars were not allowed on the road without them. Nothing is so cold as cold weather in California.

Orchards froze. Most of them have insurance, which will partly pay for the oil used in smudging—and what a mess smudging makes. And the price of oranges, lemons—to say nothing of avocados! This is where Texas comes in for some easy money.

Two weeks later, now, the roofs are still white, and will stay this way until melted by the warmth of the house within. Children who have never seen snow get reckless and cause all sorts of damage with snowballs. This is what the natives call a "hell of a winter for California."

Creative Writers' Potluck Luncheon

("Please bring hot dish")

Please bring a hot dish —
Or just make it cold;
But don't leave your script at home —
It might get sold.

Some like you hot —
Some like you cold;
But please see that you're on the spot,
Timid or bold.

—Hot Dish (E.B.)

Windy City

When I am far away from home
You always seem the same,
Although I really know you are a most capricious dame.

You seem to wear your frigid gown
Of snow and ice and sleet,
And often make it difficult
For me to keep my feet.

This image that I hold of you
I surely would not trade
When I am sweltering in some spot
One hundred in the shade.

For all I have to do, you know,
Is close my eyes, and see
The snow race down the boulevard
Completely shrouding me.

Not The Same Person

We all know that there was a Scandinavian god named Loki—a mischievous little character, who upset his contemporaries no end. This is not that Loki.

Highland Park Women Investigate Chapeau-ology At Kensington Tea

The annual Kensington Tea of the Highland Park Woman's Club, an event sponsored by the Home and Education department, Mrs. A. Gordon Humphrey, chairman, and Mrs. Harold Bridges, vice-chairman, is eagerly anticipated by the entire membership of the club. This year it will be held in the club house on Tuesday, February 8, from 2 to 5 p.m.

A special attraction has been arranged for the occasion. At 2:15 Mrs. Josephine B. Phillips will give a lecture on Chapeau-ology, the art and science of the right hat for the right face. Mrs. Phillips, Chicago designer, demonstrates millinery 'restyling' with your own hat on your own head. It is a 'Portable Millinery Clinic'.

There will also be a large collection of exhibits: handwork, both new and old, antiques, various 'collections' and single items. Anyone willing to share the enjoyment of their treasures by exhibiting them are urged to bring them to the club house as soon as possible after ten in the morning on the day of the Tea.

The members and their guests are invited to bring their handwork and to enjoy the afternoon of fellowship, contemplation of the interesting exhibits, the demonstration and lecture on chapeau-ology and last, but by no means least, the Tea.

The charming Valentine tea-table is being planned and decorated by Mrs. Herman R. Pomper and Mrs. Garfield W. Day.

Mrs. Marvin Wallach, chairman of the Philanthropy Committee, wishes to announce that because of the Kensington Tea the sewing meeting at Ridge Farm is being postponed until Wednesday, February 16.

Yachtsmen Seek Escape From Wintry Blasts

A near-capacity audience braved a stormy night to reach the Highland Park Library auditorium last Thursday to view movies and slides of billowing sails in the Bay of Finn and at Mackinac and the warm skies of the Bahamas. This escape from a North Shore winter was under the guidance of Gunter Schwandt, vice commodore and education chairman of the North Shore Yacht club.

For the first half of the evening, Roy Olson of Highland Park, owner of the yacht Fair Wind, presented and commented on the official film of the Great Lakes Cruising club. Edited and titled by the sure hand of Vaughn Shoemaker, chief cartoonist of the Chicago Daily News, the color film was an hour-and-a-half composite of movies taken by members on all parts of Lake Michigan from Sault Ste. Marie to the Chicago river. Mr. Shoemaker is commodore of the cruising club and honorary member of the North Shore Yacht club.

The second half of the program was provided by Fred Nolde of Deerfield, who gave informative and humorous commentaries as he showed his series of beautiful color slides taken on a cruise in his large ketch, Chaleur II. The slides were arranged in the sequence of the Noldes' cruise from Florida to Nassau and into the smaller islands of the Bahamas.

Mr. Nolde, also a member of the yacht-club, is owner of two other yachts besides the ketch.

Mrs. William F. Einbecker, Regent of the North Shore Chapter of the DAR will call the next meeting to order at the home of Mrs. W. H. The names from the competing High Schools in Illinois will be presented at the State Conference in Chicago in March and the lucky girl chosen as state Pilgrim from Illinois will receive a Government
