Subscriber's Letter —

a small boy I still have a clear mental picture of her, and think of her with affection.

Previous to Miss Elliott's coming to Elm Place she was Highland Park's first and only school teacher, and taught in a little wooden school-house in the north end of Highland Park, then known as Port Clinton.

It is impossible to measure how much the influence of a great teacher shapes the future of a community, but I am sure we are agreed that it is large. Miss Elliott was a great teacher and the first of many such in Highland Park.

I have asked Mrs. Beck to send me all the information she can, relating to her aunt, in order that it may be filed—either with the Historical Society or at Elm Place. She says she has some things she would like to give us.

For years I have wanted to learn more of Miss Elliott and her sister, who lived on Second street, but found little information. Here on Melbourne beach we met, by chance, her niece, who was very close to her.

We meet Highland Parkers everywhere. Over a year ago, on the desert outside Salt Lake City, my car was misbehaving, with nearly a hundred miles between stops. I called Mrs. Morris' attention to the fact that we had not seen any cars for some time, and said that I hoped the old bus would not stop, for if it did, we would starve to death. Just then we did see another car—a speck in the distance. When it reached us, lo and behold! it bore a Highland Park license and carried neighbors from Flora Place, one of whom taught with my daughter at Lake Forest College. Yesterday I got information about our first school teacher that I did not find at home. "Such is the bronze old way things are."

Roberts, '27, Charles Benson, '28, Henry Mason, '29, Winfield Zimmerman, '30, Elson Rice, '31, Charles McCarthy, '32 and '33 (deceased), Flora Werner, '34, Phillip Cole, '35, Saylor Shanafelt, '36, David Johnson, '37, Henry Eitner, '38, William Salyards, '39 and '40, Norman Culver, '41 and '42, Arthur Johnson, '43, John Halterman, '44, Donald Bernardi, '45, and Edwin Gilroy, '46 and '47.

Honored guests were Mrs. John Callaman of Gurnee, immediate Past Director and present Past President Parley chairman of 10th District; Mrs. Wm. Stiehr of Gurnee, Mrs. M. R. Porter of Lake Forest, a Past Director of 10th District; Mrs. Leonard Eichler, and Mrs. Cal Brusso of Highland Park. Hand-made ear bobs were given to each of the twelve members participating in the Hat Parade, a feature of the entertainment. Mr. John Wilner, Highland Park, was the lucky winner of the grand prize of the evening, a 52 piece set of Roger's silver.

It is hoped club members will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Hoppe's interpretation of this charming book. A film on the Cancer Activities in Lake County will follow the review.

Mrs. W. C. Powell will be hostess, at tea, for the day.

The speaker for the annual spring luncheon, held in the Knollwood Country Club, April 26, will be Mrs. Anita W. Burnham, whose subject will be "Around the World on a Penny." Mrs. John Silence and Mrs. James Collins will be co-chairmen of arrangements.

Highland Park Library

The efficient secretary in any line of business needs useful tools that will produce facts quickly and easily. A suggested basic kit consists of a good dictionary, the United States Postal Guide, World Almanac, State Legislative Manual, Dictionary of Abbreviations, Forms of Address, and a city or telephone directory. This basic list can be expanded to fit the demands of any particular business or trade. Legal and medical secretaries will require handbooks covering such terminology and specialized practice.

The following helpful books may be found at the Highland Park Public Library:

Secretaries Who Succeed, by E. R. Becker. Written by a successful secretary who works for a successful boss. Practical points are illustrated from actual experience. Recommended as informative and interesting reading.

Handbook for the Medical Secretary, by Miriam Bredow. Useful to the dental and medical secretary for their specific problems. Covers such subjects as professional behavior, appointments, confidential records, insurance, accounting, medical terminology, etc. Etiquette in Business, by M. L. Carney. Treats situations that arise as a new comer, an experienced employee or where working in an executive capacity and includes a section on social life in business.

The Legal Secretary by E. L. Connelly. Developed to give a brief but functioning knowledge of the sources and divisions of the law, setup of the courts, and court procedures. Includes a practical discussion of secretarial duties and some material on legal terminology.

Standard Handbook for Secretaries by L. I. Hutchinson. A "must" for all secretaries. Every page presents facts clearly.

English for Secretaries by K. M. Monro. Assists the secretary to make her letter writing more effective. Illustrations of many types of business, semi-business, official, and social letters are presented.

The Successful Secretary by Margaret Pratt. Interesting and light reading. Seven secretaries to famous people give their experiences and suggest helpful viewpoints. A Dictionary of Abbreviations by Herbert K. Stephenson. An essential desk tool.

Cancer Control Clinic Located At Victory Hospital, Waukegan

One of the uses to which funds collected in the current Lake county cancer drive will be put is the support of the Diagnostic Clinic for Lake county, which is located at the Victory Memorial hospital, 1324 N. Sheridan rd., Waukegan.

This clinic is approved by the Lake County Medical Society and is financed by the State Department of Public Health, Division of Cancer Control. It is operated solely for the diagnosis of cancer, not for other diseases. All records are confidential.

The clinic is in session every Tuesday, starting at 10:30 a.m. There are usually eight doctors in attendance who volunteer their time in order to give accurate diagnosis.

Persons whose condition requires examination are referred to the clinic by their physicians. No person is turned away, however, even if he does not have a physician's referral.

The services of the clinic are free. If additional x-rays or technical examinations are necessary, and state funds do not cover them, the patient is expected to pay for them if he is financially able to do so.

Lake county's quota in the drive which started April 1 is $23,800. Funds collected will be used for research, information centers, diagnostic clinics and medical care.

Dr. Arnold E. Osterberg of Waukegan, a member of the clinical investigation staff of Abbot Laboratories, is county chairman.

Two attractions will feature the April meeting of the North Shore Art League to be held at the studio in Winnetka Community House at eight o'clock Thursday evening, April 21st. Don Yacove, one of the league painting instructors, will give a demonstration of casein and watercolor painting. This demonstration is expected to be of great interest to all who are interested in painting and pictures, as casein is becoming one of the most popular painting mediums.

The second attraction is the exhibition opening on the evening of the meeting of the works of three of the Art League instructors, which will include paintings by Herrmann and Briggs Dyer, and sculpture by Nancy Coonsman Hahn. This exhibition will remain on view on the studio walls until May 4th.
