Short-Term French Course Given At Y

Don't forget the new short-term French course which started at the Y yesterday.

This is a five-week course, with one lesson per week. The class work is conversational French, and under the excellent instruction of Madame Brush, who is herself a French woman, the students really learn to talk French.

If you have not joined this class it will be well worth your time to come in for the remaining lessons, or even one or two as a check up on your pronunciation. You will learn a great deal and you will have a lot of fun.

Public Library Offers Books On Angling

The fishing season is on, and as Highland Park certainly includes its share of this country's 15,000,000 fishermen, the public library has assembled some choice angling literature in a current exhibit. Starting with the old standby, Izaak Walton's 'The Compleat Angler', and continuing right through to the 1949 publication, 'Til Fish Do Us Part', this collection includes accounts by famous fishermen, helpful tips, good yarns, and handbooks of equipment. 'With Fly, Plug and Bait' by Ray Bergman covers all freshwater fishing in a competent and somewhat informal manner. John Allen Knight has treated the same subject in a somewhat different way in 'The Theory and Technique of Fresh Water Angling' in which he gives information on tackle and equipment for various uses. The artificial fly is the subject of two books, 'How to Tie Flies and Fly-tying', in which some fly-rod lures other than standard types are discussed. The latter book includes the addresses of shops selling actual patterns.

The fish themselves are the subject of F. R. LaMonte's 'North American Game Fishes'. This is a non-technical identification guide to fresh and salt-water fish of North America, and includes 150 plates, 81 of them in color. 'Striped Bass' by O. H. P. Rodman should prove very practical to those who wish to know where, when, and how to catch them.

Most sportsmen will be familiar with the periodical, 'Field and Stream', but they may not know that it and 'The Field and Stream Reader' can be found at the library. If they enjoy reading of the exploits of fellow fishermen they will like John Robbins' 'The Incomplete Anglers', J. Brown's 'Outdoor Unlimited', and the Haig-Brown book 'A River Never Sleeps'. The well-written reminiscences of fishing experiences in many parts of the world appear in 'Going Fishing' by Negley Farson.

These are but a few of the volumes available to enthusiasts who have impatiently awaited this year's opening day, and by inquiring at the main desk other titles may be secured.

Disabled Veterans Occupied In Making Poppies

Thousands of disabled veterans of both World Wars are now being given employment by the American Legion Auxiliary making memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day, Mrs. Karl Salo, Poppy Chairman of the local Auxiliary Unit, has announced.

The veterans are at work on the poppies in hospitals and convalescent workshops in all parts of the country, finding in the work occupation for minds and hands during the long-hours of illness and recovery. The work is given to those most in need of the earnings and those who benefit most by the activity. More than 10,000 have been employed during the winter and spring months, she estimated.

Made of crepe paper with stems of paper-wrapped wire, the poppies are replicas of the wild poppies which grow on the battle fields and war cemeteries in Europe. Shaped carefully by hand, each poppy is different, each reflecting the skill of its maker.

Poppies which the local Unit of the Auxiliary will distribute here on Poppy Day are being made at Veterans' Mental Hospital under the direction of the 7th and 10th District Department of the Auxiliary.

Easy to Make SEED FRAME

Anyone handy with a hammer and saw can construct this sturdy seed frame. It is made up of four sides, and a hinged top glazed with Vimlite, flexible plastic glazing. Vimlite is used because it is shatterproof, lightweight, has good insulation qualities and is easy to install. No grooving of the frame, or putting is necessary. Vimlite is merely tacked in place like fly screen.

The standard size for seed frames is 3 feet x 6 feet. To protect it against rot and decay, the lumber used should be treated with Dow's pentachlorophenol. This chemical and Vimlite can be obtained at hardware, lumber and building supply stores. Assemble the four sides, center partition, and top frames according to the sketch. For permanent construction it is advisable to use galvanized screws instead of nails. The seed frame is set in place on the ground with the high side to the north, and the top sash slanted toward the sun. The inside should be filled with 3 inches of cinders or gravel and then a layer of top soil. This insulates against cold, and improves drainage. When the seed frame has served its purpose each season, it should be removed and stored until it is time to use it again.

FIVE POLIO PRECAUTIONS ARE LISTED FOR PARENTS

Warning that the 1949 polio season is "just around the corner," the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today issued a list of precautionary measures to be observed by those in charge of children during the epidemic danger period which usually runs from May through October, reaching its peak during the hot, mid-summer months. The five easy-to-follow health rules for children are:

- 1. Avoid crowds and places where close contact with other persons is likely. 2. Avoid over-fatigue caused by too active play or exercise, or irregular hours. 3. Avoid swimming in polluted water. Use only beaches or public pools declared safe by local health authorities. 4. Avoid sudden chilling. Remove wet shoes and clothing at once and keep extra blankets and heavier clothing handy for sudden weather changes. 5. Observe the golden rule of personal cleanliness. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies or other insects. Garbage should be tightly covered and, if other disposal facilities are lacking, it should be buried or burned.

The National Foundation also listed the following symptoms of infantile paralysis: headache, nausea or upset stomach, muscle soreness or stiffness, and unexplained fever. Should polio strike in your family, call a doctor immediately. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment by qualified medical personnel often prevent serious crippling, the National Foundation pointed out.

The organization emphasized that fear and anxiety should be held to a minimum. A calm, confident attitude is conducive to health and recovery. Parents, it said, should remember that of all those stricken, 50 per cent or more recover completely, while another 25 per cent are left with only slight after effects.

If polio is actually diagnosed, contact the chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis serving your community. The chapter will pay that part of the cost of care and treatment which patient or family cannot meet.
