Elm Place School Picnic, Tuesday, June 7

The Elm Place School Picnic Day will take place Tuesday, June 7th, commencing at 1:30 P.M. at the Morgan Playground. This Annual event is always an exciting and a happy one for children, parents and friends.

Races and field events in competition for ribbon awards are scheduled for boys and girls of each age group. There will be special entertainment features including movies, a White Elephant Sale, fish pond and refreshment stands. The eighth grade boys and girls have charge of concessions and will devote the proceeds to their gift fund with which they traditionally leave some fitting gift for their school. Last year the graduating eighth grade presented the electric score board for the boy's gymnasium.

The family picnic follows the track and field events. The band concert and father-son and mother-daughter ball games are traditional events.

This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

WE'VE been snooping into bath customs (an angle for our water heater story), hoping to find out some of the early (before automatic water heaters) methods of heating water for the bath. We spied on prehistoric man in his "plunge bath," the Asia Minor ancient in his "Turkish bath," and Pharaoh's daughter in the Nile. We toured the Greek and Roman bathhouses. Very lush productions. We had dinner with King Darius, who believed in combining banqueting with bathing. We found out who gave bathing the fast axe in Europe and why. Also how the bath-custom, revived after being throttled for a thousand years, was received by the masses in the Middle Ages. We peered into the palaces of Catherine the Great, Elizabeth, Isabella, Napoleon, and the Louis XIV, XV, and XVI. We shipped with the colonists to America and interviewed three of the first bathtub owners in this country—an almanack-maker, the wife of an early president of the United States, and—much later, of course,—a Mid-Westerner. We call our bath-time story, "TALE OF THE TUB, Hot Water and Soap."
