When it's time to start thinking about going back to school, it's also time to start thinking about the lighting situation in your home. Young eyes are too precious to neglect... don't risk strain due to poor lighting. Check the "study spots" in your home today and make certain your children have good lighting for their homework.

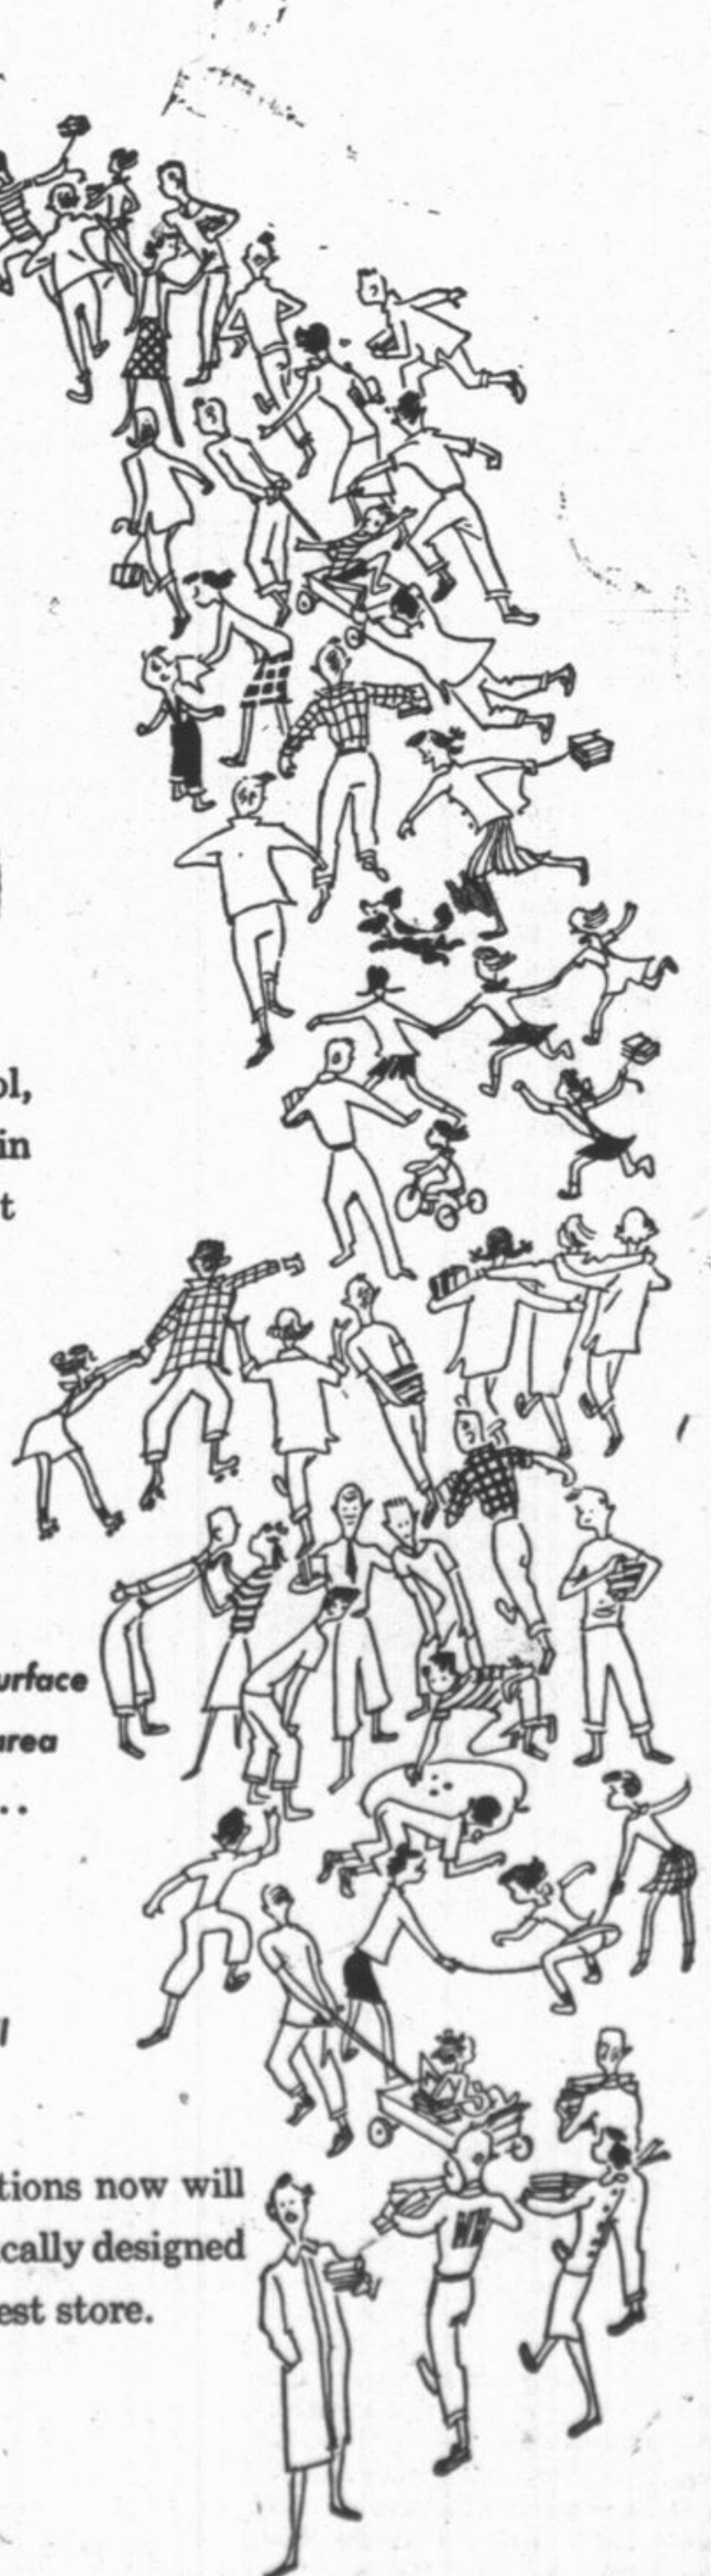

THESE THINGS ARE IMPORTANT FOR GOOD STUDY CONDITIONS:

- Glareless light distributed over the study surface
- Upward illumination to brighten entire study area
- Lamp should be to left of right-handed child... to the right of a left-handed child.

- Light-colored blotter or desk top
- Child's eyes should be about 14 inches from desk top
- If possible, desk should be parallel to a light-colored wall
- Books should be tilted at an angle for easier reading

Remember, a small investment to insure proper study conditions now will pay big dividends in preserving eyesight. See the new, scientifically designed study lamps at your electrical appliance dealer's or our nearest store.
