"If The Man Is Right . . ."

It was Sunday. . . .
 Sunday school was over.
 Eleven o'clock service was attended.
 Dinner was eaten.
 Dishes were done.
 Dad sighed as he slipped into his favorite chair and picked up the fat Sunday paper.
 "Dad, please read the funnies to me," Junior said.
 "Oh, not now, Son. Why don't you go and play somewhere?"
 "No, Dad. I want you to read the funnies to me."
 "Okay, Son. But later. How would you like to earn a dollar?"

"Fine," replied the youth thinking it'd be nice to have two weeks' allowance in advance.

DAD'S PLAN . . .
 "See this map of the world, Son?" Dad asked showing the lad the Sunday magazine section.
 "Yes."

"Well, I'm going to cut this page up into many pieces. It'll be your job to put it together so all the pieces will fit perfectly."
 "Okay, Dad."

The map was cut into pieces. The pieces were given to Junior who was asked to go upstairs to his room and put the map together.

Junior left.
 "Ah," said Dad. "Now to relax and read my paper."

PUT TOGETHER PERFECTLY . . .
 A few minutes later, Junior returned.
 "Here it is, Dad. It's all together."
 Amazed, Dad looked it over. The map was put together perfectly, each state, each country in its proper place.

"How did you do it so fast, Son?"
 "Easy."
 "You see, Dad, on the other side of the map was a full page picture of a man. I just put the man together right and the world was right."

The experience helps to prepare him for his future responsibility as a voting citizen."

Rachmaninoff's Second Suite, Opus 17, has most influenced the career of the two artists. About a decade ago they recorded the Second Suite in London where they already had some little vogue and, the recording was ultimately distributed in America where the two piano programs were beginning to catch the fancy of the wide musical public. The recording became a best seller and the name of Vronsky and Babin became well established.

Born in Russia, both went to Berlin to study music under Arthur Schnable, where they met as pupils. They married and merged their separate careers as duopianists. An exciting debut in London won for them a wide public throughout the British Isles. They began to make recordings in England, introducing new music to the two-piano repertoire, much of it composed by Mr. Babin himself. After successes in Paris, Belgium and Holland the young Russian team was offered a contract to tour the United States, where they immediately became a popular concert attraction. The Vronsky-Babin recital is the fourth presentation of the
