Scheme hard and furiously to do most of your household jobs sitting down: preparing vegetables and fruits, stirring puddings and sauces as they cook on the stove, ironing, packing lunches and mixing batters. Even perch on the sofa as you dust and tables. It's not laziness; it's plain common sense.

When your brown and white spectator shoes are up for polishing, put a coat of oil shinola on the brown first. Then if you splash some white polish on the brown part, it won't be so stubborn to wipe off the waxed surface. Give the brown a final shinola treatment for finish.

To stitch nylon effectively, use nylon thread. No other will do as well or last as long.

Scrumptious with salads is this garlic-cheese toast. Cream 2 tablespoons vitaminized margarine until soft; add 1/2 clove garlic, peeled; let stand 5 minutes, then remove. Toast 4 slices bread on one side; spread untoasted sides with garlic mixture and sprinkle with 1/4 cup grated sharp cheese. Toast under broiler until cheese melts. Serve it cut in thirds.

Avoid sprinkling rayon whenever possible. Instead, iron your rayons as soon as they've dried to the right degree of dampness. You'll then have perfect distribution of moisture which is all but impossible with sprinkling.

Whether the weather blows hot or cold, there is always sunshine in a pleasant meal. The sunshine in this luncheon is the basket of crisp, hot biscuits served with chilled chicken salad.

Perhaps you've already discovered that flaky biscuits make as perfect a bread with chicken salad as they do with roasted or stewed chicken. Biscuits have a way with other salads, too. In less than ten minutes one can stir up a batch of drop biscuits that are full of good nourishment in every bite and that add a bit of Southern charm to the bread basket.
With a salad main dish, most hungry folks will eat three drop biscuits, or more. This means they will get an extra-generous portion of B-vitamins, iron, protein and food energy needed in summer as well as in winter. Because of their food value as well as their good taste, enriched breads of all kinds belong in practically every meal.
If you like, drop the biscuit batter into muffin cups rather than on a baking sheet. This makes shapely little biscuits. However they are baked, serve the biscuits hot with butter or margarine. Other spreads, such as honey, fruit jams, jellies or peanut butter are good, too. Sweet spreads are a good way to include extra calories in the diet for slimmers and growing children.

DROP BISCUITS
2 cups sifted enriched flour 1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder 1 cup milk
1/2 cup, milk 2 to 4 tablespoons shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a thick batter, stirring only until flour is well moistened. Drop by spoon-fuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 18 biscuits.

Southeast Asia Supplies Needs Of World That Rides On Rubber

NATURAL RUBBER COMES FROM HERE

Over 90% of all the rubber grown in the world comes from billions of rubber trees in Southeast Asia. On rubber depends modern travel and communication—including automobiles, trucks, planes, telephones and radios.

Recent events have turned the spotlight on Southeast Asia, stronghold of democracy in the East and the world's chief source of a raw material on which modern civilization depends—natural rubber.

A scant 70 years ago not a single rubber tree grew in this entire area, nearly as large as Europe. Today there are millions of acres of neat rows of high-yielding rubber trees which supply nearly all world needs for this elastic material. The United States alone used over 600,000 tons of it in 1949.

In addition to the large plantations or "estates," which are financed and managed by European and American companies, there are over 400,000 small one-family rubber farms in Malaya alone which supply a "cash crop" for native Malays, Chinese, and Indian growers.

A booklet called "Natural Rubber and You" has recently been published by the Natural Rubber Bureau, Dept. N200, 1631 K St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C. It shows in photographs how natural rubber is grown in Southeast Asia. You can obtain a free copy by writing the Bureau.
