Maria Santi Charms Sunday Audience With Fine Performance

In the performance which she gave on Sunday at Elm Place school, sharing honors with Catherine Sternbauer of Chicago, Maria Santi proved to her audience that her quality of tone and quiet poise have earned her a place among professional singers.

One of the numbers in the second part of her program was from "Cavalleria Rusticana" in which she sang the tragic role of Santuzza—a number which she gave twice in her Rockford performance last year.

Miss Santi wishes to extend to her audience of October 15 her deep appreciation and thanks for their warm reception. Especially does she thank her sincere and devoted friends who have waited a long time for this, her first professional appearance.

In the afternoon at 4:00 p.m. the annual Thank-offering program of the Little Heralds under the supervision of Helen Hecketsweiler will be held in the social rooms of the church. In addition to the children's participation in the program, two film strips will be shown, namely: "Dee Dee Chou and His Dog", a color film strip on China; and "Kembo, Little Girl of Africa," in color slides. At the conclusion of the program, tea will be served by members and friends of the W. S. W. S. Everyone is invited to the services of the day.

PROOF of its healing power

The way to health and harmony among men is earnestly and unselfishly sought by both Science and Religion.

Many divergent methods confront mankind. But the claims of all ultimately submit to one test — the test of proof.

The final chapter in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, consists of 100 pages of unsolicited testimonies from persons healed by reading this book alone.

All testimonies have been carefully authenticated. All manner of disease and discord has been cast out permanently and promptly. This is the proof that Christian Science provides of its healing power.

Science and Health may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.
