Girl Scout News

by Mrs. M. E. Tippey

The first aid to animals badge is something a little bit different from those usually chosen by Highland Park Girl Scouts, but two troops are working on it now. Troop 15 (7th grade, Ravinia), after wanting to study this badge for almost two years, had the good fortune to visit the Glencoe Animal Hospital recently, where Dr. Myron Bernstein carefully explained to the nineteen girls how to give first aid to animals, and took them on a thorough inspection of his fine hospital. Mrs. Joseph Schonthal, Mrs. Herbert Schaffner and Mrs. Marvin Anthony are the troop's leaders.

Troop 5 (8th grade, Braeside) is also working on this badge. Dr. M. J. Skala, of the Highland Park Animal Hospital gave these girls the same courteous help with their study of First Aid to Animals.

At the Ravinia bazaar, November 6, 7, and 8, all the troops of Ravinia school will have a part in it. Troop 1 (6th grade), headed by Mrs. John Coleman and Mrs. Lee Ginsburg, has been giving much time to assisting Mrs. Bernard Davis for the Surprise booth. They have been collecting the grab-bag gifts, helping to wrap them attractively, and will also help with the selling. This community-service project is part of their work under the My Troop badge. These girls spent an interesting afternoon recently touring city buildings—the waterworks, the incinerator, and the City hall. They are planning to work on a First Aid badge, the Cooking badge, one of the Dramatics badges, and to finish the My Troop and the Winter Sports badges, which they started last year. Patsy Skidmore is Troop Treasurer, and Merle Brody is the Planning Board member.

Judy Kramp, from Troop 2 (8th grade, Immaculate Conception) reports that her troop is especially interested in service projects. The twelve girls meet at the home of their leader, Miss Norma Santi, and have been sewing baby clothes for an orphanage, doing all the cutting and sewing themselves. They have also been helping Mrs. John Jacobsen to serve Friday morning breakfasts at their church. Their first meeting this year was a party, because Connie Weiland, Reita Goeckner, Judy Kramp, and Jeanette Belmont all joined the troop this year.

Also at Immaculate Conception school, troop 17 (7th grade) headed by Mrs. John Jacobsen, has been very active. Lucille Carani, Scribe and troop Reporter, announced that they had an overnight at the cabin last Friday night, accompanied by Mrs. Edward Ohlwein and Mrs. Jacobsen. The ten girls divided up the jobs so that five would cook the dinner while the other five gathered firewood and set up cots, and the jobs would be reversed in the morning. Beverly Wagh, Janet Michela and Matilyn Thalman were shoppers for the two meals. Dinner was: spaghetti with tomato sauce, soup, salad, and chocolate milk. Breakfast was: eggs scrambled with bacon, sweet rolls and milk. After dinner on Friday night, they played "Charades", "Murder at Midnight", and a relay race requiring the tying of string on arms and legs. After they went to bed they spotlighted each girl with flashlights, while she told a joke or sang a song.

Saturday morning, after breakfast, they did more individual stunts. Marilyn Thalman sang, "Where has my Little Dog Gone?", using as part of her act a friendly little black cocker spaniel puppy who strayed by and adopted the troop for a few hours. Calista Ohlwein is President of this troop; Nancy Ipsler, Treasurer; Lydia Bertucci, Secretary; Danielle Risdon, Planning Board Member; Ann Morren, Juliette Low Representative; and Donna Welch, Alternate for Planning Board or Juliette Low girls.

The troop has just finished making clever little dish gardens, using square baking tins, a layer of cinders for drainage, and landscaping them with dirt and hand-made cement walls. Inside the walls, they were filled with water, and birdseed and grass seed was planted in the rest of the garden. The next Leader's meeting will be on Wednesday, November 8, at the new Recreation Center on North Green Bay Road, and will feature helpful ideas for craft projects.
