TV SPORTS PARTIES

Teen agers have long been noted for their ability to think up reasons for giving parties. A recent evidence of their ingenuity is the "TV Sports Party," a new party idea inspired by telecasts of Madison Square Garden sports events over New York's WPIX.

The "TV Sports Party" is ideal for teen agers for several reasons: It's easy, inexpensive, and offers the opportunity for frequent "get-togethers." All that's needed is a television set and simple refreshments.

Alternating gatherings at each others' houses, teensters provide "atmosphere" by setting up grandstand-type seating arrangements, which also makes for more sitting room. The party-goers usually come armed with banners designating their team favorites, eat hot dogs and popcorn. In view of the chilly thermometer, however, and out of loyalty to one of the sponsors who makes Madison-Square-Garden-at-home possible, they forsake drinking the proverbial soda pop in favor of easily prepared instant Chase & Sanborn.

Parents encourage the "Sports Parties" because they make for clean, wholesome fun and no unduly late hours, as the telecasts end at a reasonable time. Also, instant coffee makes for less fuss and bother afterwards, as coffee grounds and messy pots are eliminated. Instant coffee also happens to be an extremely economical beverage — a point not overlooked by teen-agers, or their parents.

HI SCHOOL JINX

We hope that you all had a nice Christmas. We offer our congratulations to those people who received fur coats and cars for some of their minor presents. How do they do it?

Gerry Reading had a sleigh ride on Friday night with a few other girls.

Everybody enjoyed themselves at Swing Club last Friday night. There were parties afterwards at Jack Tyson's, Nancy Bear's and Sys Graham's houses. It is rumored that there was one at Lathie Nath's.

Mystery of the week — Who were Vincent Cimbalo and Bruno Ponsi with at the movies last Saturday night? Where was Ray?

We were all glad to see Ronnie Danielson back on leave. So was Pixie.

Also, last week we were visited at the school by many returning alumni. Do you think that we will ever get out of school? Gruesome Twosomes:

Mimi Angster and Tommy Compere
Diana Forsythe and Russ Whitney
Ann Bennett and Joe Cleaver.
Have a Happy New Year! Vincent Cimbalo is having an open house and dinner and dance at the Presbyterian Church.

Don't forget the Holly Hop, Friday, Dec. 29. It is from 9 to 12 and is held at Ravinia Village House.

He was walking along the street when he heard screams issuing from a nearby house. He ran in to investigate and found a frantic mother whose son had swallowed a nickel. Seizing the youngster by the heels, the stranger turned him over, gave him a few shakes and the coin rolled out on the floor.

The grateful mother was lost in admiration. "You certainly know how to get the nickel out of him," she said. "Are you a doctor?"

"No, Madam," he replied. "I am with the Internal Revenue Department."
