So much depends on them

Good telephone people are essential to your good service in normal times. They are supremely important today in meeting the growing telephone needs of national defense.

$15,500,000 IN NEW PAYROLL COSTS TO ASSURE GOOD SERVICE

Good telephone service is the foundation of military and civilian defense communications... a keystone of speeded-up war production. Good telephone employees form the base on which it is built.

And to assure continued good service during the critical days ahead, this company has recently granted additional wage increases to the 39,000 employees serving you at Illinois Bell. These will add $15,500,000 to Illinois Bell's payroll costs over the various wage contract periods.

These raises for employees have sharply increased the telephone company's rising expenses. But they were necessary to bring telephone wages in line with higher wages recently granted by other industries in the territory we serve. Of equal importance, they assure you of high caliber telephone people to handle your communications problem, and the nation's communications during the challenging days that lie before us.

No price can measure its usefulness
