The Big Texan Was Right

Korean Incident
Yesterday it was my privilege to visit a soldier boy who had lately returned from the Korean front, where he was seriously wounded. He would say very little about the war, but he became really garrulous in his praise of The Salvation Army field workers. But let him tell it himself:

"We were licked and everyone knew it. Likewise we were cold, tired and hungry. That long and tedious retreat over the mountains had taken all the strength we possessed. (If you have ever been shot at you'll get what I mean.)

As we swung down into devastated Pyongyang it looked rugged. Nevertheless on we plodded—cold, dirty, verminous. A miserable looking mob. We even tried singing to pep us up, but no soap. We were just worn out.

"As we finally swung into the wrecked city, lo, and behold there was a blessed Salvation Army portable coffee stand with three lassies dipping up the hot cups with real sugar and cream. Talk about Santa Claus! I got my cup and just sank down in the snow. This, I thought, is undoubtedly what they serve in Heaven.

"I watched those angels (that's what they were, Bud), deftly placing steaming cups in shaking hands that reached out so eagerly. I noticed a chaplain fluttering around behind the cart. You've probably seen 'em.

A big, unshaven Texan, a giant, was just reaching for his cup, when the chaplain interrupted to suggest that they mention something about Jesus as they waited on the men. Well, sir, the big Texan's reaction was a sermon in itself.

"Hey, Mister", he growled. "Don't you know they are putting Jesus into everyone of those cups?"

OBITUARIES

Eichler

Funeral services were held at the Redeemer Lutheran church on Monday, January 22, at 2:00 p.m. for Edward John Eichler, 81, of 241 N. Second street, who passed away on Thursday, January 18, in Elgin, Illinois. The Rev. H. K. Platzer conducted the service. A widower, he was preceded in death by his wife, Catherine several years ago.

Born on July 31, 1869, in Wheeling, Mr. Eichler was a retired carpenter. He was a Highland Park resident most of his life. He leaves to survive him two sons, Harry E. and Leonard M., and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Borchart and Mrs. Lena Domke, all of Highland Park. Burial was in North Shore Garden of Memories.

Mansfield-Jones

On Saturday, January 20, Mrs. Mary Mansfield-Jones, 73, widow of the late Edward Mansfield-Jones, was taken by death at the Chiquippin Convalescent and Rest Home in Half Day.

Born July 8, in London, England, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Samuel H. Bingham, Jr. of 612 N. Sheridan Road, and a son, Greayer Mansfield - Jones of California.

Private funeral services were held yesterday, January 24, at Trinity Episcopal Church. In terment was in Graceland Cemetery, Chicago.

McClure

William Frank McClure, 73, of Wilmette, advertising executive and founder of the North Shore Sunday Evening Club (then the Wilmette Sunday Evening Club) in 1915, died January 3 at his home. Services were conducted on January 5 at the First Congregational Church, Wilmette. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery.

Survivors are his widow; a son, Lawrence F. of 333 Woodland road, Highland Park; two granddaughters, Mrs. Laurence Brown of New Canaan, Conn. and Mrs. Robert Clark of Vista, California; and an infant great-granddaughter, Carol Brown.

Reinhardt

A tragic accident occurred on Wednesday evening of last week at Dundee, Illinois, when Peter L. Reinhardt, former resident of Highland Park, met his death as the car he was driving collided with a truck. He was 28 years old.

A pilot in world war II, he entered the service from Yale University, where he was a student and was several times decorated for bravery. He completed 30 missions over Europe, and was returned safely to his own lines at one time when his plane was downed over friendly territory. At the time of his death he was a resident of Algonquin, Illinois. He was in the oil-drilling business with his father, S. L. (Spider) Reinhardt, retired broker and former Yale football star. It is a strange co-incidence that the father met a similar accident in the same vicinity eleven years ago.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. George C. Moseley of St. Charles, the former Elaine Rosenthal, a former champion of Western Women's Golf association, and a sister, Melissa.

Rites were held on Saturday, January 20, in Chicago, with interment in Rosehill cemetery.

Tapper

Mrs. Jean S. Tapper, 80, of 911 Osterman avenue, Deerfield, passed away on Friday, January 19, at Whitehaven Acres, Glenview, after a lingering illness.

Born in Lauder, Scotland, on January 27, 1870, she came to this country in 1900, living in Cleveland, Ohio, before moving to Deerfield in 1949.

Mrs. Tapper is survived by her husband, Walter, son, W. S. Tapper both of Deerfield, and two brothers, Andrew Stewart of St. Thomas, Ontario and George B. Stewart of Cleveland.

Private funeral services were held at 2:30 p.m. on Monday, at the Trinity Episcopal church.

Girl Scout News

by Mrs. M. E. Tippey

Three troops from Elm Place school—Troop 33 (8th grade) and Troops 9 and 11 (7th grade) have been meeting together on Mondays to take the Junior Red Cross First Aid course, under the direction of Mrs. Jackson Smart. They have been studying bandaging, artificial respiration, poisons, splints, etc. When they finish, they will have earned the official Junior Red Cross certificate, as well as the Girl Scout First Aid badge.

Troop 33, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Lennox, has been also working on the Ambassador Curved bar, and has been planning an imaginary trip to Great Britain. Recently they had an English tea party, complete with tea and trifles, (a combination of lady fingers, custard, jelly and whipped cream). At the tea party, they were shown colored slides by Mr. Charles Willard, brother of Mrs. Lennox, taken while he was in England. Nadine Nellis is president of the troop; Nancy Houghteling, Juliette Low representative; and Peggy Lennox, member of the Girl Planning board.

Brownie troop 60 (3rd grade, St. James) held an election at its last meeting, and elected Patty O'Connor secretary; Janie Lenzini, Juliette Low representative; and Joyce Doti, member of the Brownie Planning board. Mrs. Americo Linari and Mrs. James Bernardoni are the troop's leaders.

Virginia Cronkrite, from Troop 25 (5th grade, Lincoln) tells of a troop party at Cathy Maxwell's house, where they went sliding, and had a treat brought by Karen Jacobsen. Mrs. Maxwell served hot chocolate to the girls. Christmas gifts for their parents which the girls made were brown felt shoe-polishing mittens, embroidered with their father's initials. Their next project will be making leather lanyards. Mrs. David Levin and Mrs. Arthur Bogeous lead the troop.

Sharon Schaefer, from Brownie troop 47 (3rd grade, Oak Terrace) reports that at their last meeting they elected Audrey Rivi their Juliette Low representative; and Katie Fehner, their member of the Brownie Planning board. Then they and their leader, Mrs. J. C. Fehner, and Mrs. Peter Chioni went for a troop walk, afterwards singing songs and playing games.

Martha Brown, reporter for Troop 19 (6th grade, Elm Place) announces that plans have been made with their sister troop (Troop 10, 6th grade, Elm Place) to hold a Court of Awards on Tuesday, January 30, to which their mothers have been invited. Among other guests will be Miss Dean White and Mrs. John Bailey from the Girl Scout office; and Mrs. Randolph Brooks, Red Cross swimming instructor, who has recently helped several Highland Park girls earn their Swimming badge.

Members of Troop 57 (5th grade, Immaculate Conception) had a surprise birthday party for Carol Larson last week. Their troop reporter, Helen Elwell, describes a large and varied assortment of refreshments—two kinds of cookies, fudge, devil's food cake, cup cakes, rice-krispy squares and doughnuts, all made by members of the troop. Their leader, Mrs. Steve Sordyl, made hot cocoa to go with all this treat. Mary Helen McDonald is their president and member of the Girl Planning board; and Darlene Vanoni, their Juliette Low representative. Just before Christmas, the girls had another surprise party, this time for their leader, and each girl brought her a special gift.

Rabies—A Year 'Round Danger

The mistaken conception that dogs become afflicted with rabies only in hot weather is not subscribed to by this little lady who, despite near-zero temperature, sees that her pal and her family are protected by the pet beagle being vaccinated against rabies by a veterinarian.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Rabies, a disease fatal to humans and animals alike, is as great a threat in winter as during the summer months, according to Dr. Roland R. Cross, state Director of Public Health.

For a person's own security and for the protection of his pet, it is advisable to see that dogs are immunized against rabies summer and winter, he declared.

Although more dog bites are reported to the health department during the months of June through October, statistics indicate that 80 per cent of the diagnosed cases of rabies in dogs are found in the period of November through May.

Rabies in humans is 100 per cent fatal. Treatment following dog bite, to stave off the disease, may be dangerous in itself, and costs the state Department of Public Health, which provides anti-rabic vaccine free of charge, about $100,000 annually. Much of this medical expense, as well as a great share of nearly $500,000 which is lost yearly in livestock and livestock products because of rabies in meat and milk animals in Illinois, could be saved if proper control measures were taken, Dr. Cross asserted.

The only practical way of controlling rabies in Illinois, he continued, is through annual vaccination of all dogs kept as pets and removal of strays for which no one takes the responsibility of vaccination.

Dr. Cross has urged civic-minded individuals, veterinarians, physicians, health officers and livestock men to form community organizations to fight rabies. Such a committee can, he said, encourage dog vaccination and licensing and removal of unlicensed strays who could carry rabies to pets; urge and support state and local legislation for rabies control measures and promote educational programs aimed at veterinary examination of all dogs suspected of having rabies.
