Girl Scout News

by Mrs. M. E. Tippey

Eighth grade Girl Scouts from all local schools are invited to a party at the Recreation Center on the night of Friday, March 9, from 7:00 to 9:00. There will be songs, games, refreshments, and fun for all.

Another party at the Recreation Center was given for the Juliette Low representatives from all Girl Scout troops. Each brought her troop's gift to the World Friendship Fund. The last-year representatives were also invited to attend.

Judy Hutchinson and Carol Johnson attended the Juliette Low party, representing their troop—Troop 36 (5th grade, Braeside). Carol, who is also troop reporter, describes a recent meeting where each girl chose a foreign country and told or showed something about its customs. This was their "Thinking Day"—a day especially chosen by Girl Scouts to remind themselves of Scouts and Guides around the world. Carol brought a fine collection of dolls from all over the world to show the girls. At the same time, the girls gave their contributions to the World Friendship Fund. The troop also held a fly-up ceremony for Ann Feuchtwanger, in which she received her wings and her Girl Scout pin.

At Immaculate Conception, Troop 17, headed by Mrs. John Jacobsen, is working on a dramatics badge, and gave the play: "One-eye, Two-eye, and Three-eye." Lucille Carani reports that Nancy Josler was the prince, Donna Welch, One-eye; Lucille, Two-eye; and Beverly Waugh, Three-eye. Calista Ohlwein was the goat; Ann Morren, the Fairy godmother; Danielle Risdon, the step-mother; Marilyn Thalman, the tree (and stage hand); and Lydia Bertucci was the announcer. The girls made their own costumes and made up lines to suit the story. This play was given twice—once for the 3rd grade Brownies of their school, and once for the 4th grade Brownies. Each time they were served a treat of cookies or cupcakes which the Brownies had made.

Nancy Walz, reporter for Troop 44 (6th and 7th grades, Oak Terrace) describes a trip made to the beach of Lake Michigan by her troop-mates. They walked along the shore, carefully avoiding the beautiful, but dangerous, ice that had piled up into mysterious caves along the edge of the water. While they were there, they saw some wild ducks, but other than that, no signs of spring. Their leader, Mrs. Charles Walker, is helping them with their Winter Sports badge.

Sue Schechter, from Ravinia school's Brownie troop 50 (4th grade) and her troop-mates went to visit the Highland Park city hall, where they saw the court room, the council room, and the police department. They peeped into the jail, listened to reports over the police radio, and had a chance to sit in a police car outside and hear the officer call into the station over the two-way radio. Their leader, Mrs. Allan Wolff, and Mrs. Andrew Lawson chauffeured the Brownies for this trip.

A stranger walked into the pet shop and asked for the proprietor. "I have come to inquire about your advertisement in this morning's paper for a man to retail imported canaries," he announced.

"Glad to see you, sir. Are you interested in the job?" asked the proprietor.

"Oh, no. I was just curious to know how the canaries came to lose their tails," the placid stranger replied.

ately north of Ravinia Terrace from Single Family District to Multiple Family District. First lot on Green Bay Road, north of the northwest corner of Central Street and Green Bay Road from Multiple Family District to Central Business District.

All lots on the west side of Green Bay Road between West Park Avenue and Homewood Avenue from Multiple Family District to Central Business District.

The first lot on the south side of Pierce Road east of St. Johns Avenue from Single Family District to Outlying Business District.

Inasmuch as the above proposals constitute the first important changes suggested in connection with the Zoning Ordinance of 1947 considerable interest has been evidenced on the part of the public and it is expected that there will be a large attendance at the hearing.

Communicants' Classes For Presbyterian Youth

Communicants' Classes for initiation of young people into church membership at the annual Good Friday Services of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church will again be held this year in a series of three meetings for each of two age groups in the two weeks preceding Easter. Under the joint direction of the ministers—Dr. William A. Young and Mr. Edward W. Greenfield, the three sessions will have as their discussion topics, "The Meaning of Religion," "The Significance of Jesus," and "The Significance of the Church."

Young people from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades will hold their meetings at 3:45 p.m. on Tuesday, March 13; Friday, March 16 and Tuesday, March 20. Young people of high school ages will meet at 4:00 p.m. on Monday, March 12; Thursday, March 15 and Wednesday, March 21. The young people to join the church, together with many parents and other adults, will be received by the Session of the church at 7:00 p.m. on Good Friday Evening, and be publicly received in the Good Friday Communion Service at 8:00 p.m.

While the classes are designed for training in church membership, and therefore will be primarily attended by persons who will be joining the church for the first time, they are open to any others who, though previously received into membership, may wish to renew their experience and increase their understanding.

Garden Club Arranges Informative Program

Mrs. Kenneth Kraft, Lakewood place, will open her home tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m. (Mar. 9) for the regular monthly meeting of the Ravinia Garden club.

Mrs. Arthur Strubel, Conservation chairman, in charge of the program, has arranged a panel from members of the club to give five minute talks on some pertinent subjects.

Mrs. Strubel will open the program with a short talk about the National Parks association and Mrs. William Alderman will follow with a talk on "Grass and Conservation."

"Planting Tree Crops" will be Mrs. Frederick Mudge's topic and Mrs. James Barton will follow with "Englemann Spruce Blight". Mrs. Hugh Riddle has chosen "Save-the-Redwoods League" as her topic and Mrs. Spencer Keare will close the program with "Power Dams and Conservation."

Once a year, Ravinia Garden club endeavors to devote one program to some phase of conservation.

Following the program, tea will be served with Mrs. Ralph Archer acting as assistant hostess and the Mes. Stanley Grace, C. W. Haupt and Gordon Leonard serving on the committee.

satisfaction. Though the program has been condensed into three sessions of two hours each, it still is very comprehensive. According to Donn Mason, who designed this Conference specifically for retail sales people, it is constructed to aid the trainee with basic sales knowledge, and review with the seasoned sales personnel the important factors which many know but are forgetting to use.

Mr. Mason, who is Senior Counselor for the Donn Mason Company, and who is an acknowledged authority on retail sales training, will conduct all three sessions. The assemblies at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home, Central Avenue and Green Bay Road, will begin at 7:30 on three successive Tuesday evenings, March 20, March 27 and April 3.

funds was both immediate and enthusiastic. Within the first forty-eight hours after the mailing more than a hundred replies had been received, many of them with complimentary letters and offers to be of further help. Many returns included checks for substantial amounts. Heading the list of those who expressed complete endorsement of the plan and desire to be of material assistance was a letter from Gen. Robt. E. Wood to General Wilbur donating $1,000 to the new Service Men's Center. The initial and continuing response from the citizens of Highland Park, according to Gen. Wilbur, indicate in no uncertain terms their approval of a Service Men's Center in Highland Park and the plans announced for establishing it. As soon as the funds have been raised, he continued in his statement, a local organization will be established representative of all faiths and every section of the community. It is this organization he adds that will operate the center, and arrangements have already been made as the result of conferences with Mr. Webster, Mrs. Heller, Col. A. H. Cummings, Commander of Fort Sheridan, and Capt. J. E. Fitzgibbon, USN Administrative Officer of Great Lakes, to continue in the policy of close cooperation with both the two training centers and the Service Men's Center in Chicago. Following a conference in Mayor Patton's office, during Mr. Webster's stay, it was further agreed to remain in constant contact with him and the National USO organization in order that the local group might continue to have the benefit of Mr. Webster's advice and council in concluding plans for both organization and operation of the new center. Mr. Webster expressed himself as highly pleased with the fact that the local group had so well conformed with the policies and purposes of the United Service Organizations and approved of all procedure to date. The Commanding Officers at Ft. Sheridan and Great Lakes have already expressed their approval and have written Mayor Patton complimenting him and the citizens of Highland Park on their initiative in meeting this urgent need and offering the full cooperation of their staffs.

Industrial Arts At Elm Place School

During the past year and a half the industrial arts program and shop layout at Elm Place School has been enriched and completely rebuilt. New areas have been added to the curriculum and many new machines and tools added to the rebuilt shop itself.

The Senior Shop, which is under the direction of Mr. G. H. Elliott, includes the fifth grade boys and all the sixth, seventh, and eighth grade boys and girls. After receiving good fundamental activities in the Junior Shop under Miss Lawry Turpin, the children come to the Senior Shop for more diversified activities with varied materials. In the Junior Shop the children have worked with wood exclusively and with hand tools only, but upon reaching the Senior Shop, the children have drawing, woodworking, plastics and metalworking available to them.

Each of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grade classes enters the planning area before receiving any shop work in the Senior Shop. Starting with the sixth grade, students receive very elementary instruction in how to sketch objects pictorially and then to draw them in the working drawing technique. All this is done freehand and is intended to help them grasp the fundamentals of shop drawing and planning. From this they can better go ahead with their project work in the shop. With our large classes of today this is important both to the student and the teacher, since the student can do more by himself, and, therefore, the teacher is able to get around to more students during the class period.

The seventh graders go a little further in the drawing and learn more about detail in project drawing and how to dimension drawings. To conclude this drawing exploration, each student makes a complete drawing of a project he or she intends to make. In this way students have the groundwork to move into the shop and begin their project work.

The eighth graders carry their acquired knowledge from their sixth and seventh grade drawing a little further and finish by making a tracing and then making a reproduction from the tracing. The making of a suitable drawing from which to make a tracing introduces the children to the basic instruments used in mechanical drawing: namely, the drawing board, T-square and triangles.

The shop is very well equipped for the elementary level. There are some fourteen machines available, including two wood lathes, jig saw, band saw, circular saw, belt and disc sander, drill press, two grinders, two buffers, a portable sander, blue printing machine, box brake and a slip roll. Students work with them progressively through the grades until by the eighth grade they have learned to use all the machines that they desire or which were necessary in the making of their projects.

Students are free to work with woods, metals or plastics as they choose. They are not required to make any designated project, but are allowed to make any project that would fit their levels or backgrounds. Better than this, the students are encouraged to design their own projects while in the drawing area and to carry them over to the shop. Classes divide according to individual wants and all three areas are being carried on simultaneously. This type of activity is the true general shop organization, and it lends itself to the elementary level very well since children of this age level are anxious to experiment with different materials, projects and ideas. We find that during the sixth and seventh grades there is much exploration and experimenting with all three materials. During the eighth grade most students spend their time with one material.

Woodworking still seems to hold its ranking as the most popular material. However, plastics and art metal appeal to the girls a bit more strongly and some fine work is done with these materials.

Ericson, B. W. Aten, Carl P. Anderson, Joseph Leuer, Clifford Harrow, E. Konsler and Miss May Allen.

There are three basic reasons for this year's increased quota in Chicago:

- 1—The institution of a Blood Program to supply 180,000 pints of plasma to the government.
 - 2—The exhilarated training program in First Aid and Home Nursing.
 - 3—The greater need for Red Cross services to the expanding Armed Forces both in the United States and overseas.
- Therefore Highland Parkers are urged to welcome your Red Cross solicitor and Give Generously.
