Student Art Project In Lake County

Some boy or girl in Lake County elementary schools may bring national recognition to the community through a student art project announced by the U. S. Treasury Department.

"Draw The Dream You Save For" is the title of the project. It is not a contest. There is no entry fee or obligation to buy U. S. Defense Bonds or Stamps. Every 4th through 7th grade pupil attending public, private or parochial schools may take part.

Schools have already been sent a descriptive folder by the U. S. Treasury in Washington. Principals are asked to return the entry card. A "Certificate of Participation" is then sent the school.

Pupils will draw pictures of what they hope U. S. Defense and Stamp Savings will provide them and their families in future years—a new auto, new home, higher education, grand vacation, comfortable old age or other personal goals.

Each school will be permitted to send up to five of its most interesting drawings to Arnold J.

"THE SPORTSLIGHT"

By Will Schlichting

Lake Forest College will open its 1951 baseball season with Elmhurst college in a non-conference game Wednesday, April 11. A 15 game schedule has been arranged by head baseball coach Peter Busone. Who says spring is not here?

The National Campus Basketball Tournament, sponsored by the Bradley university athletic department, will get under way on March 27 with the following schools participating: Villanova, Bradley, Toledo, Wyoming, Utah, Syracuse, Western Kentucky, and Duquesne.

Lake Forest college's defending Little Nine tennis champions will open their 1951 schedule on April 5 meeting Elmhurst college at Elmhurst. The Foresters, with practically the same team intact, are pre-season favorites to annex their third straight league title.

Here are the final standings in the Suburban League basketball play for the 1950-51 season, as compiled by Mr. Harry Pertz, secretary of the League:

Rauen, State Director, U. S. Treasury Defense Bond Division for Illinois, 105 W. Adams St., Chicago 3. The "dead-line" is April 23. These entries will then be sent to Vaughn Shoemaker of the Chicago Daily News, Regional Chairman of the National Cartoonists' Society, cooperating organization. This area, includes Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. Following a review by this group, outstanding entries will then be surveyed by a National Cartoonists' Society head group in New York City. A national display of representative drawings will then be put on display at the White House, Washington, late in May.

HI SCHOOL JINX

The "Gondoliers" was one of the best H.P.H.S. productions yet. Due to various and sundry publicity stunts, including an act by George White and Joe Cleaver, the attendance was better than average. In order to keep all occupied after, Betsy Kraft, Bob Larson, and Norm Levi gave parties. Many chose to end the evening at the annual Firemen's Ball which, according to all reports, was a big success.

The week end before last, there were parties at Sandy Goldboss's, Betsy Kraft's, Lynn Cooper's, Diane Phillip's, and Jim Gillespie's. Jim, you certainly believe in going all out for a thing!

Would you like to apply for membership in a "little" organization for the perpetuation of goodfellowship? If you are "black hearted" and have fifth period lunch, you are cordially invited to join. Paul Day will gladly vouch for all its good merits. But Paul, it's rather early for the obstacle course, especially bare foot. Warning: Greg Newell.

Jean Bailey is seeing blue. In fact, she's got a blue complex. Sometimes she even sees peach and gray.

Speaking of dyes, St. Patrick's day brought out a bevy of green-haired beauties.

Lynn Elliot, Sue D'Sinter, and Judy Wender have acquired a new lunch period, but their success was short-lived. If this is not explanatory, notice that they've been after school for the last five days. Joe Cleaver, Barb Dewey, Diane Wing, Sheila Blumenthal, Sherm Carson, and others are off for a gay time at Aspen, Colorado. Got room for one more, namely the author?

Now they even have the police force visiting Mr. Pertz's mechanical drawing class! Could it be Tom Briddle they're after? Or Mr. Pertz, what have you been doing? It seems that Vangie Rose is playing the part of an absent hostess. What has John Hansmann got that your guests haven't, Vangie?

Pat Montgomery's present interest is spelled "F-R-E-S-H-M-A-N G-I-R-L."

N. S. Railway—

Accountant reveals that the Shore Line operation is an extravagant and wasteful one.

The petition states that the Commission's recital that their witness J. W. Roberts is an expert is contrary to all of the evidence in the case. "The undisputed testimony from Mr. Roberts himself, was that he is not an engineer—either civil, mechanical or electrical; that he knows absolutely nothing about buses or bus operations; and that prior to his assignment by the Commission in this proceeding had never had any experience whatever in the management or investigation of an electric interurban passenger railway."

Among the many findings and conclusions of witness Roberts which the railway contends to be erroneous or without foundation and which were apparently used by the Commission in arriving at its decisions, are such things as depreciation, so-called adjustments in income and expenses, distribution of traffic, maintenance, administrative costs and numerous similar items.

As to service rendered by the railway to the Army at Fort Sheridan, the petition states that the Commission's recital respecting testimony of witness for the Army is only a part of his uncontradicted testimony. The Army's witness testified "that the combination express-rail and bus service as proposed by the petitioner during the period of military emergency was considered adequate for the present and foreseeable future needs of the Army."

Buses supplementing rail service were proposed by the Company during the period of unusual demands at Great Lakes and Fort Sheridan to facilitate the speeding up of train schedules for the public along the Shore Line Route and to release rail equipment now used to handle purely local, short-haul riding, for use in meeting military needs.

The Commission's alleged findings that the results of operation of the Shore Line are beneficial rather than detrimental to the rest of the railway system are claimed to be erroneous and contrary to the evidence in the case. The railway contends that the application of the so-called and unlawful "out-of-pocket" theory by the Commission is improper.

The proposed bus operation would not compete with the Evanston Bus Company of with the CTA, according to the railway and any other conclusions by the Commission are contrary to stipulations disclosed by the company for closed-door operations not only in Evanston but also in territory served by the CTA.

That part of the order directing the railroad to develop and present to the Commission certain information relating to transfer of passengers to the CTA at Howard Street, the introduction of joint through rates between Shore Line and CTA points and the turning back of Shore Line trains at Howard Street, the Company protests has no proper place in the order of the Commission and is an unjustified and illegal invasion of the railway's right to conduct and manage its own business and beyond the power of the Commission.
