

EVIDENCE FROM 1921-1923, A SAMPLING

* indicates source of featured versions of this photograph

Non-Holodomor: Dead passengers, including an infant, lay on the floor of a railroad boxcar in Russia (PD826)

*Photo source: Bildarchiv [File 68/62/7A]: Bundesarchiv, Koblenz, Germany.

A small print of this photograph is part of a collection of Russian famine photos from the Volga region which was in the possession of Dr. O. Fischer. Each photo bears his signature, includes a caption, and is dated March 1922 on the back of the photo. The photographs were later donated to the Bundesarchiv.

Also available for viewing and download, with limitations, from the International Committee of the Red Cross, Audiovisual Archives, <https://avarchives.icrc.org/Picture/9435>

Misattributed as documentation of the 1930's Soviet famine:

Ammende, Ewald. 1936. Human Life in Russia. London: G. Allen & Unwin.), f.p. 192. (reprinted in 1984 as: Ammende, Ewald, and James E. Mace. 1984. Human Life in Russia. Cleveland: Zubal.)

Caption: "families boarded a train and went to Kharkov to demand food, which they did not, however, receive. When the train was opened they were found to have died from hunger on the return journey."