

Interviewee: Valentyna Revutsky, born on August 30, 1923 in the city of Proskurovka, Khmelnytsky Oblast.

Interviewer: Ariadna Ochrymovych

Date: February 24, 2009

Description: Bogdana Torbina

00:00:35 Interviewee introduces herself.

00:01:03 Interviewee describes the size and demographic of her city.

00:01:53 Interviewee introduces her family members.

00:02:50 Interviewee recounts how her father was repressed by the state. Interviewee states that her father was forbidden from living within 100km of his village and lost his right to work.

00:03:18 Interviewee explains that her mother exchanged valuables for food at the Torgsin.

00:03:47 Interviewee recalls her mother exchanging her gold fillings for food.

00:04:36 Interviewee describes her mother working at a sugar plantation.

00:05:26 Interviewee talks about taking care of her siblings when her mother left to work.

00:08:00 Interviewee recalls her mother making food.

00:08:28 Interviewee recalls that her uncle and grandfather died of starvation.

00:08:55 Interviewee recounts the kidnapping of children during the Holodomor.

00:09:26 Interviewee tells a story about the disappearance of a child whose remains were sold at a bazar.

00:10:56 Interviewee describes witnessing two deceased children on her way to school.

00:13:36 Interviewee discusses the collection of the dead.

00:14:44 Interviewee explains that a church in her city was transformed into a warehouse.

00:15:42 Interviewee describes the destruction of another church.

00:16:07 Interviewee recalls people celebrating Christmas in the ruins of a destroyed church.

00:19:11 Interviewee discusses religion.

00:21:04 End of Interview.