The Committee on Privileges and Elections met again yesterday to continue their investigation into the conspiracy to overthrow the Mowat Government. There was a large attendance of the Committee, while the parliamentary library, where the Committee met, was crowded. Mr. Harcourt presided.

THE PRODUCTION OF TELEGRAMS.

The first witness called was Mr. H. P. Dwight, General Manager of the Great North-Western Telegraph Company.

Mr. FRASER—You were called upon to produce certain telegrams? A.—The summons came to my house at nine o'clock last night for the production of telegrams. It would take quite a number of days to find them, and we have not been able to come to a conclusion as to whether we should produce these telegrams.

Mr. MORRIS—The subpoenas are issued by authority of the Speaker. I believe certain telegrams are called for in that subpoena. Will you let us know what they are?

Mr. FRASER—I have no objection to it. The subpoena calls for the production of telegrams sent to Ottawa by Christopher W. Bunting and John A. Wilkinson since the 19th day of January and all telegrams received from Ottawa by the said Christopher W. Bunting and John A. Wilkinson, also all telegrams received from or sent to Ottawa purporting to be signed by Bunting or Wilkinson, or addressed to "Bunting" or "Wilkinson."

A. W. H. Higgins, of the Whitby Chronicle, was next called.

Mr. FRASER—Are you acquainted with a man named Stimson? A.—He was pointed out to me in Toronto on Saturday last, and I had seen him about four years ago in Ottawa, when he was known either as Stimson or Stinson. When I saw him on Saturday he was not in company with any person.

Q.—Did you see him afterwards? A.—I saw him on Monday afternoon on Wellington-street.

Q.—Was he in company with any person then? A.—He was in company with Mr. Bunting.

Q.—Mr. C. W. Bunting, known as managing editor of the Mail? A.—Yes; they were walking west, along Wellington-street, and I passed them going in the same direction, when they saluted me.

Q.—Can you describe this man Stimson? A.—He was a square-shouldered man, about the height of Bunting, but not so stout; he was a powerful looking man.
