

AIMS OF WAR RANKING FIRST

Both Leaders in Legislature
Unite in Plea for Continued
Effort

MARSHAL ALL RESOURCES

Politics were dropped in the Ontario Legislature yesterday when members of both parties delivered patriotic addresses and joined in passing a resolution, moved by the Prime Minister and seconded by the Opposition leader, approving the war aims of the allies, expressing heartfelt appreciation of the Canadian soldiers, and calling upon the people of Ontario to place the demands of the war before every other consideration. The resolution was unanimously passed, and the members rose as one and sang the National Anthem. The Prime Minister will send a copy of the resolution to the commander of the Canadian forces in the field, General Sir Arthur Currie.

Sir William Hearst said he thought it wise for the House at each session to show its devotion and loyalty to the cause and to the boys who are overseas. "Our men overseas are well worthy of all the honor we can show them, and we should give expression to their achievements," said the Premier. "It will assure them that they are constantly in our minds and that their interests will not be neglected by the Legislature of this great Province." In the last year, said the Premier, the Canadians have made a glorious record, and the pages of history will be covered with their glorious deeds. Even the enemy paid tribute to them. In an order issued by the Germans after the battle of Vimy Ridge, they said: "The Canadians are the finest assaulting troops in the world." Bereaved ones, he said, can rejoice in the proud privilege of the sacrifices they have been able to make for humanity, for the memories of the brave are everlasting.

In the War Till End.

The Premier emphasized the war aims of the allies as being reparation for wrongs that have been done and security that these wrongs may not be repeated. He was sure all the members would agree that, no matter the cost in blood and money, Canada would stay in the war to the end. "The question for us is, can't we win?" said the Premier. "If we can win we must go on, but if we cannot win it is time we should make the very best terms of peace we possibly can. But no one talks to-day of making peace or of not winning."

This is no time or place for the fault-finder, the grumbler or the slacker, continued the Prime Minister. It is no time for dissensions and disagreements when the enemy is at the gate. "We must take this war more seriously than we have in the past if we are to play the part we ought to play in bringing this war to a triumphant end. We must play our part that the finish will come as soon as possible."

Production and Conservation.

The allies, Sir William pointed out, do not demand victory just to satisfy some feeling of human nature, nor just because they want to punish the enemy for wrongs committed, but because it is only by victory that there can be everlasting peace. The treaty of peace must not be signed by the military class in Germany, but by the common people. The war has given us a new perspective and the world can never be quite the same again. He
