

transferable vote used in single-member ridings the U.F.O. voter would vote U.F.O. first and Liberal second, and the Liberal voter vice versa, thus leaving the Conservative candidate out in the cold. That argument in itself was sufficient ground for Conservative opposition to the proposal.

---