LEGISLATORS LOOK FOR PROROGATION NEXT THURSDAY

"Money" Measures May Raise Considerable Argument

OPPOSITION TO DOG BILL

Present indications are that the Ontario Legislature will wind up its 1932 sessional business in the early hours of Thursday morning next, and will be prorogued in the afternoon with all due pomp and formality by Sir William Mulock, Administrator for the Province.

Only a few supplementary estimates, the main estimates and the Government's "money" legislation remain to be disposed of in the House proper. In committee activities the Private Bills and Fish and Game Committees are practically through. Public Accounts will likely complete its inquiries Tuesday morning, and Agriculture's final meeting will be on Wednesday. There should be no undue hold-up in this work.

"Money" legislation, to which the House will give consideration in the next three days, includes Provincial Treasure Dunlop's corporation tax amendments; a bill to cut the sessional indemnities of the members either $200 or $100; Hon. Leopold Macaulay's bill tacking another cent on the per gallon gasoline tax; and a measure providing for whatever legislative changes may be required to get more revenue for the Treasury out of the Provincial amusements tax.

There is likely to be considerable argument over these bills, as well as on the Hon. Charles McCrea's amendments to the Game and Fisheries Act, establishing, among other things, a Provincial-wide ban on the use of dogs in the hunting of deer. Tory members are said to have vigorously opposed such a ban in caucus last week, but last-minute reports are to the effect that the Government will shove it through.
