

If KAMLOOPS had survived, she, rather than LETHBRIDGE, might have been photographed by J. H. Bascom at Toronto's Eastern Gap on July 16, 1959.

Another victim of the 1927 storm, the severely damaged E. W. OGLEBAY is downbound at the Soo with tug GENERAL in the spring of 1929. Young photo.

Now believed to be the oldest photograph of a lake ship, this view provided by Pat Labadie shows MAY FLOWER wrecked near Conneaut late in 1851.
