

JUDGE HART, upbound in the Soulanges Canal at Coteau Landing with a load of pulpwood, was photographed by the late Rowley Murphy from the deck of the saltwater freighter SONIA.

It was September of 1938 when the camera of J. H. Bascom caught JUDGE HART approaching the Western Gap, inbound for Toronto.

The late Jim Kidd took this view of JUDGE HART above Lock Seven in the Welland Canal, as she neared the end of her career.
