The Comfortable, Thrifty Way to Travel

The steamships of the GOODRICH LINE, twelve in number, are the finest and handsomest that ply the waters of the Great Lakes. From a standpoint of safety and comfort they are unexcelled, every precaution being taken to secure these results. Staterooms have all conveniences, and are furnished throughout in the most luxurious style, including running water, electric lights and call bells.

Every stateroom has perfect ventilation. The popularity of the GOODRICH LINE has been earned and will be maintained by a first-class service in every respect. The steamships of this line are under the careful supervision of competent masters, experienced engineers, and a prudent but progressive management.

Our May issue feature on the passenger steamer CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS brought to mind the many great vessels operated on Lake Michigan routes by the legendary Goodrich Transit Company. This page from the company's 1925 brochure shows that Goodrich then was operating twelve vessels - four sidewheelers and eight propellers. Those twelve ships ran from Chicago to seventeen destinations, with land and water connections to many more popular places. It was during the previous year that Goodrich had merged with the Graham and Morton Transportation Company, and had taken over the five ships previously operated by "The Dustless Road to Happyland".
