House of Chords presents high school scholarships

House of Chords is working to support Milton youth involved in music by offering scholarships to graduating students at Milton District High School.

The Milton music centre has partnered with Milton District High School to deliver scholarships to students to help with their post-secondary fees. This year, they presented the MDHS Modern Musician Scholarship to two graduating students. Each student received $500 to put towards his or her university or college education.

The process of the scholarship works between music teachers from MDHS and House of Chords owner Eddie Fiore. The music teachers will submit lists of students that they feel are good recipients of the award. After that, Fiore will meet with the teachers to review the candidates and distinguish who will receive the award.

Fiore already works closely with a number of potential award recipients at House of Chords as many Milton District students either take lessons or work at House of Chords.

He says House of Chords is extremely excited to be honouring local students with the award and has hopes of opening the scholarship up to other Milton high schools in the future.

"We thought we would start with MD because that's who we have the closest relationship with. They also have the music Specialist High Skills Majors (SHSM) program. We've had so many students and instructors come from MDHS and that's a big part of why we are starting with them," owner Fiore explained.

Fiore mentions that at House of Chords they strive to keep lessons up to date and take a fresh approach, which is in line with the music teachings at MD, making the scholarship pair well with the Milton high school.

House of Chords is primarily a music lesson facility, offering private lessons on various instruments and group programs in addition to boasting full service instrument retail sales, rentals and repair shop.
