This old gentleman was ninety years of age at his death. and it is pretty evident, that he was a man of quiet habits and moderate exfrom year to year by its own natural force. Now it is only when it has been in operation for a long series of consecutive years, that we see what the force of compound interest is. For the first three years the increase is almost imperceptible. but when once the the power of increase has become developed it goes on an augmenting ratio, until the result is doubt that in the case just mentioned. the wealth accumulated af er the natural duration of life had been reac! e I, was far more than in all the seventy years previous. If money can be invested at eight per cent., and the interest reinvested at the same rate, it will double itself in nine years. Allow ten years for this to take place, owing to loss of time reinvesting, and we reach the remarkable conclusion,-remarkable we mean those who have not thought about it,that if a man can lay a thousand dollars at one-and-twenty, and let it accumulate FIVE PER CENT CHEAPER at compound intrest, it will amount to dollars, if he lives to the age of seventy. to sixty thousand at eighty, and to one hundred and twenty thousand at ninety. This is the secret of the large fortunes great bankers and capitalists of ing for generations, and augments with gious rapidity after thirty or forty years have passed on. Trade Review.

A Beautiful Faith.

A pious woman, hunting up the chil dren of want, one cold day last winter, tried to open a door in the third story of a wretched house, when she heard pull the string up the door on two little half naked children Very cold and painful they "Do you take care of yourselves. takes care of us," said the oldestad"And are you not cold? Mr. Meade, niservant of the Bank of England, who was the other day arrested on a groundless charge of theft, by Aaron Warren, a detective employed at the Crystal Palance, consented in the Lambeth police court to accept an humble apology. This would have been made, but Inspector Dunlop stepped forward and stated that for a constable to apologize was accontany to the regulations of the force," and the case therefore ended in a fine of 40s. The object of his rule is, we presume, to compel complainants to prosecute delinquent police. men, but we should like to know how far t extends. To apologize for a gross out-PIGS | rage is clearly forbidden; but may a policeman beg pardon if he treads upon your toes? Or would that act if reported, be registered against him by his inspector? It is of course, quite right to discourage compromises between the police and aggrieved persons, but the effect of prohibiting apology can only be to increase the grand defect of the London police their legged lads too often imported into the force do not ned to be ordered to be ungrapigs will do well to avail themselves of this cious.
