Our Wext Governor.

Report says that another Irish Lord to wit, Lord Naas, the present Irish Secretary-18 to succeed Lord Monck .never hid his light under a bushel. On the contrary, he has always been a frequent and lingthy speakers, and we can take the measure of his mind much more easily than we could that of Lord; to interpret it, is the index of his mind and so it is; and certainly in this case the outward and visible signs do not indieate any very remarkable inward and spiritual power. Lord Naas is very tali and very fat. He is not what is called corpulent, but fat all over. He used, when he first came into the House, to be called the "Fat Irish Boy." Now fatness, from of old, has never been held to indicate mental powers. On the con trary, it is generally held to indicate a, somewhat sluggish mind. Thus Shakespeare tells us in "Love's Labor Lost".

"Fat paunches have lean pates; and dain-

And no doubt, as a rule, active clear sound thinkers are not fat. The philocan be behind it a very active brain .--Nor is there; all Lord Naas's speeches prove this. He is not a fool, nor is he market price. a blunderer, nor is he ignorant, but simply, we wou'd say, a common-place, amiable, dull man. Give him time to pore over a subject, and he will make a resonably good speech upon it-as most men of average education can; and he will deliver it with ease-not eloquent) nor fluently, but passably well. But it is very hard work to listen to him-he is so monotonous in tone and manner, his words come out so lazily, and his place. In short, Lord Naas is one of our soporific speakers; and on a hot sentiments are so thoroughly commonsummer's afternoon, when his lordship is wonderful flexibility and great comon his legs, it is almost imposible to fort and pleasure to any lady wearing keep awake.
