POETRY.

Vill they greet me in Heaven, will they greet When I leave this world's sorrow and care?

Will give me a kind welcome there; And to know that the mercy of Jesus To one so unworthy is given: It is joy, it is bliss, it is rapture, To know they will greet me in Heaven! And was there a sound of rejoicing.

Obtained a free pardon for me? When often in weakness I falter. When faintly on Jesus I call, Is there one in that beautiful Heaven That trembles in fear lest I fall? And does some gentle spirit, to cheer me. Awaken a silvery chord?

"Dear wayward one, trust in thy Lord." Will they greet me in Heaven, will they greet Will its glorious pleasures be mine? Shall I bow with those glittering seraphs And worship the Father divine? Oh, rapturous thought, that forever In God's holy presence I'll be!

There will be a welcome for me.

that pleasure of protecting and aiding that tore up the young corn and such got a shy at him. So Smith dropped her. A little idle, desultory talk, and things, so that I could be of some use in on him one Sunday evening, when the sky cleared, the rain stopped, and about the farm, because I wasn't big all the family had meandered around Hildreth, after a deliberate survey of enough to do much. My gun was a to meeting, and found him doing a sum the water. In a moment Barry came that weighed a ton, made a report like son, as the former walked in, white as bank, and showed them their horses. The old man wanted me to shoot the he had swallowed a condensed earthfast, and were away for home.

One day, though, I got her down, and cause he wasn't sure about his speech. 'I have no fault to find with your so I took her to the hired man, and He knew he had to keep his grip on it
