to making money. " Mr. Beecher, who likes nothing bet WILLIAM SLOAN. ter than dealing with an antagonist who exposes himself so recklessly, replies with perfect good humor in this effective fashion:

"This is exquisite! If mildew attacks my grape vines, it is on an errand for God; and if I sprinkle with sulphur as a remedy, I put brimstone into the very face of God's messenger! When ness as a it rains—is not rain too, God's messenger?-does "Puritan" dare to open a WAICHMAKER & JEWELER S. blasphemous umbrella, aud push it up into the face of this Divine messenger? When a child is attacked by one of ker rash, dysentery, scarlet fever — Opposite Mr. Little's saddler's shop, where a doctor on purpose that he might resist these Divine messengers?

There are insects which attack men. against one of which we set up combs, and against another sulphur. Nay, and cheaper than ever before done in Milton, He has now on hand, Common and are on an errand for God."

Entrusted to him, with skill and despatch, and cheaper than ever before done in Milton, He has now on hand, Common and Sharp Topped Gothic Clocks.

Yes, we confess it. A "murmur' as we dig at a Canada thistle, or squirt whale oil or soap/suds over a myriad of "Puritan's" Divine messengers, cal ed aphides.
