A HERO.

POETRY.

DECEMBER 16, 1869.

Perhaps you think a hero A man of giant might, A warrior in armor, A champion for the right, Who through the world goes boastin That wrong shall be no more; The glory of whose exploits
Is sung from shore to shore.

In olden times a hero Was such a man, I know, He went to the battle aided By javelin and bow. You all have heard of Ajax, Of Priam's valiant son And of the grand Achilles, Who many battles won.

But now to be a hero

Is quite another thing, And he who earns the title Is nobler than a king. 'Tis he follows duty,
Who scorns to be untrue: Who's guided by his conscience, Not by what others do. And you may be a hero,
By doing all you can
To free the world from error
And aid your brother man.
And though no blast of trumpet

Your greatness may proclaim, With heartfelt benedictions Mankind will breathe your name. Rich Scene at a Wedding---The "Best
