COUNTERACTING A TENDENCY TO CONsumption.-It is well understood by 'Vhell, somedings as doan' blease medical pathologists that a tendency to consumption may be transmitted from paren to child. To overcome this tendency is a task to which the ordinary resources of medical science too frequently prove inadequate. There is, however, a means of counteracting it, to the reliability of which physicians themselves have repeatedly borne testimony. Not only has it been demonstrated by results there is no disputing, that Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypohorphites of Lime and Soda is a prompt and thorough means of relief when the lungs are already affected, but the proofs are equally positive that it
