What are we to say to the following specimen of English advertising which emanates from a Leeds firm in the form of a circular? Whatever that firm may know about glass-bottle making, it has evidently (in its own opinion) an intimate acquaintance with the ways and thoughts of the Deity, and has ascertained that the Almighty is particularly interested in the manufacture of "bottles, plain and stoppered." It is interesting to speculate on what must be the frame of mind of people who think that such a circular will either please Providence or attract customers. The circular runs as follows: "Gentlemen In the all-wise Providence of God have we manufacture of every kind of green and hereby respectfully beg to inform you that have been so successfully worked by a very old-established firm of glass-bottle makers, we have every confidence that by wise management and the blessing of God we shall be able to place before you all classes of bottles as good and as cheap as any other
