AN ODD DITTY.

A one-legged man, with only one arm, Which hung down limp at his side, And an eye of glass and a nose of wax.
Started out to find him a bride.

He heard of a woman without any sense But plenty of dollars in cash, So he went in the gate without taking of-fence, And proceeded to make a big mash.

He went down on his knees, clasped together his hands, And rolled up his eyes navy blue, And told her he loved her in eloquent tone, And promised he'd always be true,

If she'd only return his affection, so deep, And a tear dropped off his wax nose: But she quickly refused him, rejecting his suit All on account of his clothes.

This may be slightly mixed and you can't get any sense out of it, but there is cents in it. We have a table full of Men's and Boys' Odd Suits, that means one or two of each pattern. We find this kind of stuff at stock-taking time, which is just over. We have marked them from two to five dollars a suit less than the regular price. It is for you to do the rest.
