There is a valuable lesson in a certain little German story. The loved and petted daughter of a wealthy German noble received from her mother on her nuptial day a golden casket. In handing her the key, the mother said: "For one year, my daughter, carry this casket every day into each room in your house. Stand with it in your hand, for three minutes examine carefully the corners of the room. At the end of the year you may unlock the casket and I believe you will find I have bestowed on you the highest gift in my power." The year passed, and on the anniversary o her wedding day the daughter unlocked the treasured casket.
