SDAY MORNING

VOIL EVEL SHW OF heard of. his without special instructions inwill be cleared out regardle control We will sell you Dress Go mary, Untrimmed Hats, at rid Goods, worth 25 to 50c. w Prints, worth 10c, for 5c. 11100. Untrimmed Hats 5, 10 links leaths, and marriages, 25 id $1. We just give you a sevent sements to a per line, see the stock and you will serted at 50 cents for first inserti HOING Dargains. Our Milli Company of let the every case t Departments are work strictly cash. epartment can't be excent

ers. We are still buying hest price in cash or trade, all purchased John Newton, Si ITHS and unshrinkable Flat of Marriage Louises. rus and flannels being fame d the continuation of the newill give exceptional advant at 10c per lb., worth 50 and down every Thursday, that

IVI. VCLEOD & CO

HARDWARE!

lemen

Ilass.

Putty, ECTACLES,

ocal Courts Cale

MATHESON Clerk of the

Winn & Son, at

WILSON

attempt was made ight to blow up the Brantford Police Court ntreal Witness with building in Reichen. Henry Ling. Ling repeated on Thursday after. rkingmen were killed quest, and Magistrate Wood mitted Mrs. Hartley for trial.

Heads. Envelopes, Etc., Etc., this Office with neatness withdrew the charge of mun and despatch. ence he had given at the core

DENTIST.

AND COUNTY OF HALTON INTELLIGENCER.

MILTON, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1894.

warmed to his theme.

have his reward !"

your conduct was noble!"

dons fuss was being made about mentioned them. It was not i.- 1 a you, Coggs," said the doctor, sud-

Coggs stared idiotically and protested

There was a general fall of jaws at this

"I did venture to take such a liberty, sir."

dealy producing a little brown cane, " shall make a public example of you."

. he had breathed that wish.

stone. "Cornelius Coggs-stand up!"

VICE VERSA-Continued. "Stanley Brands

PURE SISAL BINDER TWINE 7 CTS. A LB.

Grain Cradles $2.25 Cradle Fingers 13c. each. Wooden Barley Forks 10c. each. Pure Paris Green 15c a lb. Hay Fork Rope 8c. alb.

-FRUIT JARS

Pints 65c. a doz. Quarts 75c. " Gallons $1 ' Jar Rings 8c. "

VETERINARY TOHN R. CAMPBELL,

VETERINARY SURGEON, Treats all classes of Domestic Animals. Reserve Fund. Calls promptly attended to. Office opposite the Thompson House, Main St., Milton.

R. TELFER,

VETERINARY SURGEON AND DENTIST. (Graduate Ontario Veterinary College) All diseases of domesticated animals trated the latest principals of Veterinary Science. Calls promptly attended to night or day. RESIDENCE-Two doors East of the Ole Kirk

HOTELS. COMMERCIAL # HOTEL,

MILTON, - ONT., Choice Wines, Liquors and Jigars The house has been all newly refitted and furnished. JOHN DEAN, PROPRIETOR. Buss calls for all trains. Terms, 31 perday. Good

Commercial Rooms. Telephone connection FRANKLIN HOUSE, KING STREET, WEST,

The best of Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Good stables. Attentive hostler. Rates, $1 per day. S. Cook, Proprietor.

AUDIAW, Q.C. GYORGE KAPPELE

We beg leave to advise our friends and the general public that we are buying wool this season and will, as in the past, pay the HIGHEST PRICE possible for all we can obtain.

JOHN NEWTON & 80NS, LIMEHOUSE.

PRINTING

Executed in a Superior Manner at the CHAMPION

OFFICE

Our Job Department is replete with a large assortment of plain and A. ornamental faces in type, ornamental borders and designs suitable for card and circular work. type for Poster Work.

Prices Moderate. All work turned out promptly on time, and satisfaction guaranteed.

RANDTRUNK RAILWAY (N. & N. W. Division 10.15 A.M. 8-15 P.M.

CANADA PACIFIC BAILWAY 6.48 a.m., 10,51 a.m. 7.20 p.m. 8.51 a.m., 5,13 p.m., 9.02 p.m. HAMILTON.

HEAD OFFICE: HAMILTON, CANADA. Capital (all paid up)......

John Stuart, President; A. G. Ramsay, Vice-Pres. John Proctor, Geo. Roach, A. T. Wood, A. B. Lee (Toronto), Wm. Gibson, M. P. J. TURNBULL, Cashier. H. S. STEVEN, Asst. Cashier. H. M. WATSON, Inspector. Deposits received at current rate

Notes discounted and advances made on suitable securities. States, Great Britain and the Continent | extent. of Europe bought and sold. Farmers' notes discounted at reason ble rates, and special attention given to the collection of commercial paper. Collections made on all points. SAVINGS BANK.

GEO. W. BRENT,

G. E. BOUSFIELD DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

with a full supply always on hand. SPLENDID - CORNED - BEEF now selling at 4c. per pound. Pork, Butter and Eggs TAKEN IN EXCHANGE.

FRESH FISH EVERY WEEK. livered promptly. G. E. BOUSFIELD, Orders carefully attended to and deto secure your

FLOWER POTS DE

-BUTTER CROCK-Bowls and Jugs

--FRESH--

-GROCERIESarriving every week at

ROPER'S.

Butter and Eggs taken 1. 'exchange for goods.

LOOK

FURNITURE

For Bargains: Plush Parlor Suites....$25 00 Oak Bed-room Suites

Fancy Rattan Rockers

Everything in stock will be sold at in the county.

knew I'd had anything to do with it !" With such tales of Homeric exploit and respect for authority. But although he had indeed once encountered a proctor at. and at night, he did himself great injustice by this version of the proceedings, which were, as a matter of fact, of a most peaceable and law-abiding character, and, though followed by a pecuniary transaction the next day in which six and eight-pence changed pockets, the proctors continued. their duties much as before, while Mr. Tinkler's feelings toward them, which had ever been reverential in the extreme, were, if anything, intensified by the experence. Upon this incident, however, he had gradually embroidered the above exciting episode, until he grew to believe at intervals that he really had been a devil of a fellow in his time, which, to do him justice, was far from the case. He might have gone on still further to calumniate himself, and excite general envy and admiration thereby, if at that moment Dr. Grimstead had not happened to , at the head of the cast-iron staircase led down into the playground: where Mr. Tinkler affected to be intensely ested in the game, which, as a kind voluntary compliment to the princiabout this time was galvanized into a rort But the doctor, after frowning gloomil down upon them for a minute or so, such denly called "All in !" He had several ways of saying this. Sometimes he would do so in a half-regret. ful tone, as one himself obeying the scall minutes a benignant spectator, upon balcony, and summon them to work length with a lenient pity - for he was by 1 means a hard-hearted man; but at ot times he would step sharply and sudd out and shout the word of command with grim and ominous expression. On last occasions the school generally prepare itself for a rather formidable quarter of an'

duty; sometimes he would appear for some

This was the case now, and, as a furth "He's sent them out for a walk," Siggers, who was skilled in omens. "It - a Rows at the Crichton House, periodical, and therefore things to be forearmed against in some degree, were ser tempered man, with a copious flow of off up to his bedroom, yelling like a kicked words and a taste for indulging it. was also strongly prejudiced against many not rest easy until by all the means in his would scorn to participate in it." (A thrlll blood!"

ne worked himself by degrees into such a every boarder go down into the box-room and gave himself up for lost. state of indignation that his hearers were and fetch up his playbox, just as it is, and ring will raise drowned corpses to the surlarity; he had kept himself as usual apart and carefully removed from it all such him as a defense against either party, while lost self. from the others, and was new trying to dainties as might be calculated to shock or Coggs remained motionless in the center of Now and then he roused himself from all the others." wowal at the first opportunity. He fol- Mr. Bultitude found a key which was dangling impotently.

The boys filed into the schoolroom in sol- daughter, to fear that any luxuries would "I should be most happy to meditate, question, would stretch out a snapping finemn silence, and took their seats at the be concealed there. desks and along the brown tables. The But no sooner had he raised the lid than discovering that there was no immediate sir. Let me tell him. Ask me sir! doctor was there before them, standing up he staggered back with disgust. It was danger, "if that—that bloodthirsty young restless agony of superior information. with one elbow resting upon a reading-stand, crammed with cakes, butter-scotch, hard. ruffian there would allow me to do so. 1 and with a suggestion of coming thunder in bake, pots of jam, and even a bottle am going about in bodily fear of him, Dr. was relaxed enough, as perhaps could only not his look and attitude that, combined with of ginger wine-enough to compromise a Grimstone. I want him bound over to keep be expected on the first day of the term oppressive silence, made some of the Presently be become. He said that, sin a some as possible with feverish haste, but "Is that so, Coggs? Are you mean and which, and the assistance of his right haste.

they had come together upain, he had muted figure was too quick for him. "Hallo!" base enough to take this cowardly revenge draped in a pocket-handkerchief, make it known, concerned them all to be gar, who sneaked of poor old Coggs against you?" ears. His secret was discovered, then; the full all the time; butter-scotch, if you sir!" tears. This secret was discovered, then, the run and the cline, batter sected, in you injury done him by Dick about to be resplease, and jam, and ginger wine! You'll "I assure you," said Paul, with the confuniteresting face was held-by his companion of the confuniteresting face was held-by his companion. fered him! It was not perhaps precisely young humbug?"

polic an affair of it, but, so long as it end-said Paul, angrily, for he did not like to be man. My age, and—hum—my position, extremely glad when dinner-time came, ed well, he could afford to overlook that. | called a humbug. So he settled himself comfortably on a orm with his back against a desk and his "Ever since I have devoted myself to the what boys are coming to nowadays!"

withered with confusion. "He's wandering from the point," thought Paul, a little puzzled.

tampered with by the indulgence in any of expostulate. the pampering products of confectioner ibited-as every boy who hears me knows perfectly well!" a frenzy of indignation), "what do I find? All the boxes had by this time been another."

so dead to honor and generosity, that t fit. I will not name the dastards at hearts and see their guilt reflected then At this every boy beginning to see tendency of his denunciations, tried hard assums an air of conscious innocence a. secret guilt. If so, let those boys make any rate. the only reparation in their power, and t a difficulty in turning the key.

made any response. They had grown too doctor with an altered manner. wary, and now preferred to play a waiting you fumbling at it for in this—this highly the head of one of the long tables, taking a wary, and now preferred to play a waiting wary and now preferred to play a waiting wary. CHAS. JONES. game. "Then let the being—for I will not call him boy—who is known to me, step forth He took the key and opened the lid, "Take your Livy and Latin Primer, B it spoilt his nerve. fie was a good deal and confess his fault publicly, and sue for when the cakes and wine stood revealed in titude," said Mr. Blinkhorn, mildly, "and chaffed about it, but of course no one ever pardon!" thundered the doctor, now all their damning profusion. The doctor sit down." stepped back dramatically. "Hardbake!" Mr. Blinkhorn was a tall, angular man, > ing feebly, "Me, sir? Oh, please sir-no, prepared for this!" les, you, sir, and let your companions tested the unhappy Paul. "I-I never > at poor Coggs with as much virtuous indig- there ! nution as they could summon up at such "Then why were you so anxious to avo short notice; for contempt is very infectuous opening the box?" rejoined the doctor. "No when communicated from high quarters. sir, you're too ingenious; your guilt is clear. "So, Coggs," said the doctor, with a slow Go to your dormitory, and wait there till and withering scorn, "so you thought to come to you!" defy me; to smuggle compressed illness and Paul went upstairs, feeling utterly aban> concentrated unhealthiness into this school doned and helpless. Though a word as to with impunity? You flattered yourself his real character might have saved him, he that, after I had once confiscated your con- could not have said it, and, worse still, traband poisons, you would hear no more of knew that he could not. it! You deceived yourself, sir! I tell you, "I shall be caned," he said to himself, and once for all, that I will not allow you to the thought nearly drove him mad. ontaminate your innocent schoolmates with know I shall be caned! What on earth your gifts of surreptitious sweetmeats: they shall I do ?"

can by the subtle and insidious jujube, or in one corner of the room, but looked up tude had been, and so he forebore from jovial criticism and correction) with comby theap but cloying Turkish Delight! I with red, furious eyes as Paul came in. will not expose myself or them to the in- "What do you want up here?" he said work. roads of disease invited here by a hypocriti- savagely. "Go away, can't you !" cal inmate of my walls. The trator shall "I wish I could go away," said Paul dole. any necessity of betraying his total ignor- that his blunders had ceased to amuse. All of which simply meant that the doctor, having once had a small boy taken barrassmen seriously ill from the effects of overeating an inconvenience for the future. "Thanks say you're going to catch it too ?" to the fearless honesty of a youth," coninued the doctor, "who, in an eccentric Mr. Bultitude stiffly, "that I am indeed comments from the master. going to 'catch it,' as you call it." manner certainly, but with, I do not doubt. the best of motives, opened my eyes to the iell wil. I am enabled to cope with it at its rth. Richard Bultitude, Itakethisoccasion of publicly thanking and commending you Mr. Bultitude was too angry and disap ated to speak. He had thought his will to made smooth, and now has Coggs, exasperated by all his wrongs, opinion.

a two presented mint lozenges. He wished he The "dear young friend" was grappling boy" to his miserable son ! but after a short and painful scene was sent said, his hot breath hissing through the ridiculous position?

"One word more," said the doctor, now est spanking you ever heard of!" power he had ascertained exactly how many and murmur, expressive of intense horror They were revolving slowly round the -what an immense difference any one of me!

CHAPTER VI.

for he had given too strict orders to his here to meditate on your past behavior." | was faltering and blundering over some the time nor the place for particulars.

the peace. I decline to be left alone with One wild-eved, long-haired boy ile set himself to pitch them all out as him he's not safe!"

woh. I say, you fellows, on a boy who has had the moral courage to wielding a pen-holder, he was busy enac at this! expose your deceit-for your ultimate good ing a drama based on the lines of Punch as he felt it to be compelled to Here's this impudent young beg- a boy who is unable to defend himself and Judy, to the breathless amusement of for sucking jujubes, and very nearly got us "He can fight when he chooses, sir," Mr. Bultitude might have hoped to have needn't dance. Haven't danced since I was blacked anybody's eye in the whole course delicately sensitive on these points they licate on the doctor's part to make so "Do you use those words to me, sir?" of my life. I am not—ah—a pugnacious kicked his legs viciously, which made him ought to protect me from these scan- though he felt too faint and bilious to "Yes, sir, please, sir," jeered Tipping; dals-"You've come back this year, sir," said daintiest luncheon. "Then it was like your infernal impudence," Dr. Grimstone, "with a very odd way of But at dinner he found he was expected plainly that he knew what was coming, growled Paul. You be kind enough to talking of yourself—an exceedingly odd to swallow a thick ragged section of h leave my affairs alone. Upon my word, way. Unless I see you abandoning it, and mutton, which had been carved and behaving like a reasonable boy again, I shall so long before he sat down to it "Are you going to put that tuck back?" be forced to conclude you intend some dis- stagnant gravy was chilled and congeale respect and open defiance by it."

linto patches of greasy white. No, sir, I'm not. Don't interfere with "If you would allow me an opportunity He managed to swallow it, with many Well, if you won't," said Tipping, Paul, "I would undertake to clear your replaced by a solid slab of rale brown such Grimstone-my rights as a citizen, as a This, though a plentiful, and by no means his was neatly and quickly done. Bid- householder! This is no place for me, and unwholesome fare for growing boys, was Herome tripped Mr. Bultitude up, and sat I appeal to you to set me free. If you only not what he had been accustomed I feeling far too heavy and unwell after it placed the good things in Dick's box, after "Let us understand one another, Bulti- venture upon an encounter with the tude," interrupted the doctor. "You may he wandered slowly and melancholly cously returned the key. "As the think it an excellent joke to talk nonsense the bare, graveled play-ground, during a to me like this. But let me tell you there half-hour after dinner devoted to the inevit wicked wink, "I'll carry it up for you my- is a point where a jest becomes an insult. able "chevy," until the doctor appeared at self," which he did, Paul following, more I've spared you hitherto out of considera the head of the staircase. than alive, and too shaken even to tion for the feelings of your excellent father, It is always sad for the historian to have who is so anxious that you should become to record a departure from principle, Bultitude's box was rather too heavy an object of pride and credit to him; but, have to confess with shame on Mr. for him, sir," he explained as he came in; if you dare to treat me to any more of this tude's account, that feeling the doctor's ev and Dr. Grimstone, who had quite recover- bombast about 'explaining your rights,' you upon him, and striving to propitiate him ed his equanimity, smiled indulgently, and will force me to exercise one of mine—the he humiliated himself so far as to run abou remarked that he "liked to see the strong right to inflict corporal punishment, sir- with an elaborate affectation of zest. which you have just seen in operation upon his exertions were rewarded by hearing brought up, and were ranged upon the tables, while the doctor went round, making utterly crestfallen as he could say no It chee ing an almost formal inspection, like a thing more. ustom-house officer searching compatriots, "As for those illicit luxuries in your play. "if I can only keep him in one till evening continued the doctor, "the fact that I really think I might be able to go up and to shrivel like a burst that you were no party to their being put accident that might have happened to any bladder. He fumbled with his key, and there?"

himself cordially encouraged to further put him in a good temper," he told himself

It is a curious and unpleasant thing that guments may be with which we succeed in

Mr. Bultitude's confidence faded away al seldom or never outlasts the frame of upon their slates to attend

It cheered and emboldened him.

lose it. It was terrible to "On the contrary," said Paul, "I gave we oneself to apply the match which is to the strictest orders that there was to be no however reassuring and convincing the arw one to the winds. If-if-the idea such useless extravagance. I objected to was almost too horrible—but if he, a blame have the kitchen and the housekeeper's bracing ourselves to meet or disregard less and respectable city merchant, were room ransacked to make a set of rascally pleasantness, the force of those argument actually to find himself served like the boys ill for a fortnight at my expense !" The doctor stared slightly at this credit- in which they are composed, and, when t At last the doctor actually stood by him. able but unatural view of the subject. How-unpleasantness is at hand, there we "Well, my boy," he said, not unkindly, ever as he could not quarrel with the senti- just as unreasonably alarmed at it as ever. of "I'm not afraid of anything wrong here, at ment, he let the manner of expressing pass unrebuked for the present, and, after most as soon as he found himself in Mr. Bultitude, who had the best reasons sentencing Coggs to two days' detention and school-room again. He found for not sharing his confidence, made some the copying of innumerable French verbs, he assigned to a class at one end o inarticulate sounds, and pretended to have sent the ill-matched pair down to the where Mr. Tinkler presently introduced of her chin. open the box," said the Paul went resignedly down-stairs and into the room, where he found Mr. Blinkhorn at

But the being declined from a feeling of he gasped; "wine, pots of strawberry jam! with a long neck and slightly dropping modesty, and a faint hope that somebody Oh, Bultitude, this is well-vastly well in- head. He had thin, wiry brown hair, and th else might, after all, be the person aimed deed! So I have nourished one more viper a plain face, with shortsighted, kind brown in my bosom, have I! A crawling reptile eves. In character he was mild and reserv Then I name him !" stormed Dr. Grim- which curries favor by denouncing the very ed, too conscientious to allow himself the crime it conceals in its playbox! Oh, this luxury of either favorites or aversion among Coggs rose in a limp manner, whimper- is black duplicity! Bultitude, I was not the boys, all of whom in his secret soul he the other end of the room, and, being in disliked about equally, though he neither I-I swear I never put them in!" pro- said nor did anything to show it. Paul took a book—any book, for he did regard you with the contempt and abhor- touch such things; they would bring on my uot know or care to know one from another rence you so richly merit!" Here, need- gout in half an hour. It's ridiculous to say, the whole school glared punish me. I never knew they were from the master, inwardly rebelling at hav- anecdote; he condescended to enliven the vanced years, but seeing no escape. with marked coldness, and occasionally uncertainty maces which Paul, although he tailed to hoped it might last. thoroughly understand them, felt instinctively were not intended as compliments. and not be perverted with your pernicious. He opened the door of his bedroom. which forbade him to harrass a boy allead went on again in his former slipshod manpropermints, sir; you shall not deprave Coggs was rocking and moaning on his bed in trouble, as he understood young Bult, per (which had hitherto provoked only pressing him to take any share in the class plete self-complacency, but found himself fully; "but I'm-hum-I'm set up here ance of his author, and sat gloomily on the Then began a season of sore trial and too," he explained, with some natural em. hard form, impatiently watching the min- tribulation for the class. The doctor sudute hand skulk round the mean, dull face of denly withdrew the light of his counten-"What!" cried Coggs, slipping off his bed the clock above the chimney-piece, while ance from them, and sunshine was succeedhimself, was naturally anxious to avoid such and staring wildly; "you don't mean to around him one boy after another droned ed by blackest thunder-clouds. The wind out a listless translation of the work before was no longer tempered to the more closely "I've-ah-every reason to fear," said him, interrupted by mild corrections and shorn of the flock; the weakest vessels were What a preposterous change from all his and, coming hopelessly to grief, were de-Hooray!" shouted Coggs, hysterically, ordinary habits! At this very time, only nounced as impostors and idlers, till half "I don't care now. And I'll have some re-twenty-four hours since, he was stepping the class was dissolved in tears.

> mind an extra licking, and you're in for one tomed omnibus, which was waiting with fire, like a remnant of the Old Guard in the as it is. Will you stand up to me or not ?" deference for him to overtake it; he was Peninsula. With faces pale from alarm, "I don't understand you," said Paul. taking his seat, saluted respectfully by the and trembling voices, but perfect accuracy, 'Don't come so near. Keep off, you young conductor and cheerily by his fellowpassen- they answered all the doctor's searching lemon, will you?" he cried, presently, gers, as a man of recognized mark and inquiries after the paradigms of Greek was rushing at him with an evidently hos. Now that omnibus would halt at the impropriety. ile intent. "There, don't be annoved, my corner of Westbourne Terrace in vain, and Paul saw it all with renewed misgiving. boy," he pleaded, catching up a chair as a go on its way Bankward without him. He "If I were there," he thought, "I should bulwark. "It was a misunderstanding. I was many miles away in the very last have been run out and flogged long ago! wish you no harm. There, my dear young place where any one would be likely to look. How angry those stupid young idiots are for him, occupying the post of "whipping making him! How can I go up and speak with him and attempting to wrest the chair. Was ever an inoffensive and respectable must. I'm sitting on dynamite as it is. away by force. "When I get at you," he old gentleman placed in a more false and The very first time they want me to answer chair-rungs, "I'll give you the very warm. If he had only kept his drawer locked, shall be ruined! Why wasn't I better and hidden the abominable Garuda Stone educated when I was a boy, or why didn't breaches of discipline which others might almost calm again. "I know that you all, "Murder!" Paul gasped, feeling his away from Dick's prying eyes; if he had I make better use of my opportunities! It have considered trifling, and whenever he think with me in your horror of the treach- hold on the chair relaxing. "Unless help let the moralizing alone; if Boaler had not will be a bitter thing if they thrash me for had discovered any such breach he could ery I have just exposed. I know that you comes, this young fiend will have my been so long fetching that cab, or if he had not knowing as much as Dick. Grimstone's not happened to faint at the critical moment coming this way now; it's all over with Drafts on all parts of Canada, United were implicated in the offence, and to what and scorn, went round the benches.) "You chair, watching each other's eyes like these apparent trifles would have made! The Greek class had managed to repel the are anxious to prove that you do so beyond gladiators, when Paul noticed a sudden. And now, what was he to do to get out enemy, with some loss to themselves, and His usual method of doing this was to a doubt." (Again a murmur of assent.) blankness and fixity in his antagonist's ex- of this incongruous and distasteful place? the doctor now left his place for a moment, summon the school formally together and "I give you all that opportunity. I have deliver an elaborate address, during which implicit trust and confidence in you—let stone's awful form framed in the doorway, had only to insist upon a hearing from sat trembling. the doctor: but what if, as he had only The storm, however, had passed over for grave reason to fear, the doctor should ab. the present, and he only said, with restored solutely refuse to listen, should even prothe and down through the playground into his most blood-curdling tone, after a would unless he was quite a fool declined Burdekin was unable to give you the last the box room. Paul among the rest, and, most impressive pause at the dormitory to receive him during the holidays? It lesson of his course last term, and has arwas absolutely necessary to return home at ranged to take you to-day, as he will be in his box, and, with a consideration especially Mr. Bultitude held his tongue, but kept once; every additional hour he passed in the neighborhood. So be off at once to Mrs.

not find himself ignominiously set down to lid; without any apprehensions, however, in this unseemly manner? I sent you up about half-way up, who, while a class-mate he felt strongly that just then was neither It would have been wiser, perhaps, it sir," protested Paul, lowering his chair on ger and thumb, and cry, "I don't know, would certainly have brought matters to a in a crisis, if he could have forced himself to tell everything—the whole truth in all Down by Paul, however, the discipline its outrageous improbability-but he could

Let those who feel inclined to blame him for lack of firmness consider how difficult and delicate a business it must almost of

Mr. Bultitude could scarcely believe his all into a jolly good row, with his own box said Coggs; "he blacked my eye last term, escaped notice by a policy of judicious self. a young man. But I can't afford to offend his hair was brushed, his feet were thrust into very shiny patent leather were given out to him to put on. The dancing lesson was to be held in the "Dining Hall," from which the savor of > gloves and shiny shoes giving them a feeling of ceremony and constraint which they tried to carry off by an uncouth parody of whispering in his ear. There was a rustle of dresses down the stairs outside, and two thin little girls, looking excessively proper and prim, came in with an elderly gentlewoman, who was their governess, and wore a pince-nez, to impart the necessary suggestion of a superior intellect. They were the Miss Mutlows, sisters of one of the day-boarders. and attended the course by special favor as with a little gleam of shy anticipation in The Miss Mutlows sat stiffly down on a form, one on each side of her governess, and all three stared solemnly at the boys. who began to blush vividly under the inspection, to unbutton and rebutton their gloves with great care, and to shift from leg to leg in an embarrassed manner. Dulcie soon singled out poor Mr. Bultitude, who, mindful of Tipping's warning, was doing his best to avoid her.

She ran straight to him, laid her hand on is arm, and looked into his face pleading "Dick," she said, "you're not sulky and, not being remarkably sweet-made a little disdainful upward movement "You didn't mind it once," she said. " thought you might want to dance with me. You liked to last term. But I'm sure don't care if you choose to be disagreeable.

To be continued.

NO. 5 P

Although Paul did not draw upon his slate, his utter ignorance of Algebra prevented him from being much edified by the cabalistic signs on the blackboard, which and rub out again as soon as possible, with an air of being ashamed of them. So he tried to nerve himself for the coming ordeal by furtively watching and studying the doc-

Mr. Tinkler seemed to chalk up dubiously sternly brought to book, and burdened by a Mr. Bultitude, therefore, was saved from heavy imposition, before he quite realized put on unexpectedly at crucial passages, venge on my own account as well. I don't slowly and majestically toward his accus. A few of the better grounded stood the verbs that seemed irregular to the verge of > to him when he's like that? And yet l any questions from some of their books.

calmness, "Who were the boys who learn-One or two of them said they had done Paul naturally knew nothing of this pecu. hadable in heedless boyhood, thoughtfully fast hold of his chair, which he held before imprisonment made it harder to regain his Grimstone and change your shoes. Bultitude, you learned last term, too. Go with the room, with crooked knees and hands these gloomy thoughts to observe his com- Mr. Bultitude was too overcome by this unpanions. The boys at the upper end, near expected attack to contradict it, though of lowed the others up the steps with an un- labeled "play-box," and began to open a "Will one of you be good enough to ex- Mr. Blinkhorn, were fairly attentive, and course he was quite able to do so; but then, easy wonder whether, after all, he would box which bore Dick's initials cut upon the plain how you come to be found struggling he noticed one small smugglefaced boy, if he had, he must have explained all, and necessity be, for any one to declare openly, in the teeth of common sense and plain facts, that there has been a mistake, and, in point of fact, he is not his own son, but his own father. 'I suppose I must go," he thought. "1 effacement, but unhappily his long blank, him just now." And so he followed the rest into a sort of paired and open restitution and apology of just put 'em all back again, will you, you vincing earnestness of truth, "that I never ions to bear an implied reproach, and being cloak-room, where the tall hats which the shelves in white bandboxes: and there shoes, and a pair of kid gloves tempted by anything but the lightest and mutton had not altogether departed. When Paul came in he found the floor cleared and the tables and forms piled up on one side of

Biddlecomb and Tipping and some of the smaller boys were there already, their Siggers was telling stories of the dances he had been to in town, and the fine girls. whose step had exactly suited his own, and

Tipping was leaning gloomily against the wall, listening to something Chawner was friends of Dulcie's, who followed them in a new rule in Algebra to them, in such a manengaged in drawing duels and railway trains Go and dance with Mary Mutlow if you fairly good humor, was combining instruction with amusement, in a manner pecu--and sat down at the end furthest to illustrate some word or passage by an ing education forced upon him at his ad- translation here and there by a familiar and colloquial paraphrase; he magnanimously "At dinner-time," he resolved, desperate refrained from pressing any obviously in-"I will insist on speaking out, but just convenient question, and his manner, now it is simply prudent to humor them." generally, was marked by a geniality which The rest of the class drew away from him was additionally piquant from its extreme saluted him (when Mr. Blinkhorn's atten- Mr. Bultitude could not help thinking it tion was called away) with terms and gri a rather ghastly form of gayety, but he Presently, however, some one brought him a long blue envelope on a tray. He Mr. Blinkhorn's notions of discipline read it, and a frown gathered on his face. were qualified by a gentleman's instinct The boy who was translating at the time