A James St. businessman who has for years bought all his clothes at a "fashionable" tailor, paying from $25 to $35 for his suits, noticed a man's tweed suit in our hig window priced $2.65. The pattern caught his eye. Supping inside he asked to see one like it. He was soon fitted, and went away wondering how under the sun material was made for the money, and then the poor tailors and tailoresses who made them, what did they get? Just let us say, reader, the workhands were paid as usual, but the manufacturer dropped big money on this lot of stuff. He had a reason for it. That is not our funeral. It was our opportunity, and now you have a chance to make this year's earnings go a deal farther than usual. Splendid tweed and serge suits at $2.65, $3.25, $3.75 and $4.85.
